

State Democrats are Out in the Cold Again

BY JOHN WINGAARD
Madison—The jig-saw of Wisconsin politics grew more murky today as the maneuvers between Washington New Dealers and Wisconsin LaFollette politicians came into the open and disgusted Wisconsin Democrats muttered bitter imprecations about a "double-cross" and wondered what they can do about it.

The plain fact about the oblique politics contained in the speech of Henry A. Wallace, the New Deal Democratic candidate for the vice presidency, here Tuesday evening is that it sealed a bargain which informed political observers have suspected for many weeks was in the making—a bargain between New Deal politicians in Washington and Progressive politicians in Madison for what they hope will be the mutual advantage of President Roosevelt and Senator Robert M. LaFollette, both candidates for reelection.

The consummation of that bargain makes the Wisconsin Democratic party, pushed around for eight years by its Washington leadership, orphans again in the literal sense of the word.

Ignored State Ticket
Principal movers in the political machinations which brought about a warm pat on the back for a non-Democrat from the Democratic national vice presidential candidate, who also infuriated the Democratic state ticket by completely ignoring it, were Leo T. Crowley, intimate of LaFollette-Progressives and a New Deal office-holder in Washington, Charles E. Broughton, leader of the "regular" Democratic machine in Wisconsin, and Glenn D. Roberts, law partner of Phil LaFollette and political advisor and confidante of Senator LaFollette.

If there ever was any hope for fusing the various discordant and bitter elements of the weakened Democratic party into an harmonious whole, Wallace's attitude on his one Wisconsin trip blasts that into oblivion.

The disintegration of the Democratic machine and the discouragement of its workers which began six years ago when President Roosevelt himself openly expressed his preference for Senator LaFollette over the Democratic nominee, and his willingness to play political ball with the third party rather than his nominal Democratic followers in the state was helped along by Wallace under identical circumstances here this week.

Ironie Aspect
An ironic aspect of the present confused state of affairs, however, is that the Democratic allies of the Progressives today are the "regulars," the Broughton group, the element in the Democratic party which has been assailed repeatedly by the Progressives.

The insurgent Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin, which earlier indicated a friendliness toward the LaFollette brand of liberalism, is now left out in the cold by the deal between the Broughton regulars and the LaFollette.

It was Gustave J. Keller, head of the DPOW and the man who brought Francis E. McGovern of Milwaukee back into state politics as the DPOW's candidate for governor, who said in a speech at Scandinavia in Waupaca county a year ago that liberal Democrats would and could support LaFollette, but that LaFollette would have to run as a Democrat.

Tuesday evening Keller, McGovern and other members of the state Democratic ticket walked off the platform here at the Wallace meeting in a rage because Wallace had pointedly praised LaFollette, practically asked for his reelection on behalf of the New Deal, and just as pointedly failed to mention the state Democratic ticket.

May Stop Campaigning
The practical result of the bewildering developments will probably be the cessation of active campaigning on the part of the Democratic nominees.

Political observers have noted already that some of the Democratic candidates have scarcely made a move thus far in the campaign, and there have been reports that an unwillingness of national headquarters to assist financially in their campaigns has accounted for their inactivity.

In a sense the coalition between the New Deal and the LaFollette restores Wisconsin politics to the pre-New Deal status, revives the two party system in which the LaFollette Progressives and the Republicans are the contestants.

Broughton's consent to the present deal is as open an admission as it is possible to get in political maneuvering that the Democratic party as a separate and independent entity in Wisconsin for all practical purposes has ceased to exist. His action reveals that his party's importance lies in its bargaining power as the result of the close cleavage between Progressive and Republican voting strength.

Officials Confer On Food Stamp Plan for County

Administration May Make Survey to See If Plan Will Work

Representatives of the Surplus Marketing administration, which handles the federal food stamp plan, met with Appleton officials today to discuss the plan for Outagamie county.

The city applied for the plan last March, but since that time Paul Jordan, regional director for the plan, has said the system is being designated only for counties.

John Taggart, certification agent, told the city this morning that he has been authorized to make a survey of Outagamie county to see if the plan can be worked out in the county provided Appleton and the county want it.

The plan is operated for those receiving relief aids. Orange colored stamps are distributed to relief clients and for each dollar's worth the client is given 50 cents worth of free blue stamps with which he may purchase foods designated as surplus.

Others at the meeting were Edward H. Krouch, program supervisor for the administration; Emil Frost, public relations; F. A. W. Hammond, relief director, Alderman Gustave Keller, relief committee chairman; and Alderman Harold Douglas.

11 More Badger Counties to Have Food Stamp Plan

Milwaukee—(P)—Paul H. Jordan, federal food stamp regional director at Milwaukee, announced yesterday the extension of the food stamp plan to 11 Wisconsin counties.

The plan, part of the surplus commodities program, gives relief clients blue stamps redeemable for half the value of their relief food budgets, for which orange stamps are issued. The plan thus gives 50 per cent more food to the relief clients and allows retail merchants to receive reimbursement from the government.

The plan has been adopted in Douglas, Grant, Iowa, Lafayette, Oconto, Shawano, and Vernon counties. It will begin in Columbia, Crawford, Sheboygan and Washington counties.

Jordan said that the plan soon would be operating in other state districts.

October expansion of the stamp plan will release $1,262,953 in blue stamps for trade at 90¢ retail food stores by 18,794 relief clients during the coming year.

Rule Mendota Patient Took His Own Life

Madison—(P)—The death of Donald Christenson 22 of Burlington, a patient at Mendota state hospital, was listed as suicide today by Coroner Wayne Fisher.

The youth was struck by a North Western road freight train near Waubesa last night, several hours after he fled from the hospital through a washroom window.

Coroner Fisher said the engineer reported Christenson was lying on the tracks.

Wallace Charts Michigan Swing

Sen. Vandenberg, Gov. Dickinson in Defense of Records

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—Michigan's political campaigning today was keyed by the entry of another "headline" New Deal spokesman, Henry A. Wallace, Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Heading a motorcade, the former secretary of agriculture charted a swing across Michigan from Grand Rapids through Holland, Allegan, Hastings, East Lansing, Flint and Pontiac to Detroit.

U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and Governor Luren D. Dickinson, two Republican party leaders campaigning to retain their posts, replied to their critics last night by pointing to their records in office.

Vandenberg told a "no third term" rally at Detroit he had voted for every defense appropriation and all except two army and navy appropriations since 1930.

"Both exceptions were when there was no war issue in sight. Not even in the presidential imagination," he said.

Governor Dickinson's speech was "piped" by telephone to Marquette from Lansing and broadcast through upper peninsula radio stations. The governor recently cancelled a speaking tour of northern Michigan counties for the asserted purpose of directing a conference at Lansing today between employer and employee spokesmen in the interests of industrial peace.

"Some inquiry has been made regarding the care of some of the little victims of the polio (infantile paralysis) outbreak in northern Michigan," the governor said. "I assure you that the state has not and will not neglect any unfortunate child that needs care."

White's Gym Team Leading in 6-Man Grid Competition

Richard White's team is leading the first hour boys' gym classes at Appleton High school in the 6-man touch football games. His players have won all three of the competitive games. Runners-up are the teams of Jerome Johnson and Roger McDonald, who have won two games and lost one. Carl Radtke's players have won one, lost one and tied one. One tie and two losses is the score for Douglas Moeckle's team, while Vernon Eastman's has the cellar position.

In the second period classes James Kimball is the winning captain with three wins and one tie. Max Koletzke is next with three wins and two losses. Herman Hecker has two wins and three losses on his score and Walter Gevelinger has one win, three losses and one tie.

Robert Stumpf's players are tops in the third period with three wins. Following him are Russell Piette with one win, one loss and one tie. Jay Parish with one win and two losses and Riley Solie with two losses and one tie. At the top of the sixth hour score board is Norman Schimmler with three wins and no losses or tie. Next in line are Russell Leubben with two wins and one loss, Donald Hilgendorf with one each, Arvin Ristow with one each, Roy Werner with one win and two losses and Kenneth Spay with three losses.

LaFollette Charges Heil Broke Promises

Cudahy, Wis.—(P)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Progressive who asks reelection, charged yesterday that the Heil administration had broken campaign promises by appointing state legislators to office. He mentioned appointment of Senator Marvin Duell to the insurance commission, Senator Maurice Coakley as executive secretary to the governor, and Assemblyman Reuben Peterson to the public service commission.

Heil Denies He Asked Repeal of Oleo Levy

Marquette—(P)—Governor Heil yesterday answered "rumors" that he had asked the legislature to repeal the oleomargarine tax law with a flat "no."

"We strengthened the law," Heil said, "by passing bill 434S which became chapter 432 of the Wisconsin statutes. This law enlarged the definition of oleomargarine and made evasion of the law more difficult. It was passed by the 1939 legislature and I signed it. At no time did I ask the legislature to repeal the oleomargarine tax."

Begin Concrete Work on Pool

Ready-Mixed Firms Offer Same Bids; May Hold Up Job

The city today started to pour concrete for the footings for the municipal swimming pool at Erb park, according to Mayor John Goodland, Jr.

The mayor said the work is expected to proceed rapidly for most of the underground work has been completed. The city however, will be held up pending the works board decision on concrete for the pool.

Two ready-mixed concrete firms offered the same bids which are considered too high, the mayor said. The city may rent a machine and mix its own concrete on the job, he stated.

The works board yesterday gave the contract for sockets and in-

Axis May be Securing Its Continental Gains

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(P)—Herr Hitler's penchant for creating mysteries is so great that he must be getting no end of satisfaction out of the world's excited puzzlement over the exact meaning of his heavily advertised "secret" efforts to bring France and Spain into full cooperation with the axis powers.

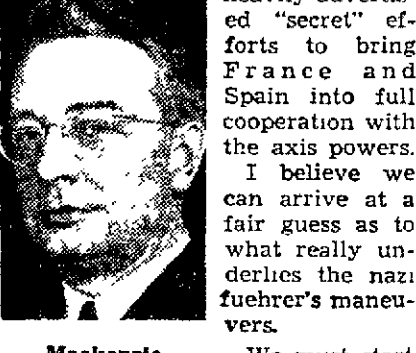

I believe we can arrive at a fair guess as to what really underlies the nazi fuhrer's maneuvers.

We must start from the premise that, whatever he is after, it will be gainful for nazism. Also, he is hunting something big, because he doesn't play for small stakes. The price he is willing to pay is reportedly heavy.

We further must consider that one of Hitler's outstanding characteristics is that he looks a long way ahead and builds for the future with amazing thoroughness.

See General Offensive
Many foreign observers incline to the belief that the diplomatic jockeying presages a great, general offensive against Britain throughout the Mediterranean area and perhaps in other zones. The axis wants bases on Spanish soil for an attack on Gibraltar, the support of French colonies, and the use of those warships still remaining in French hands.

What strikes me most forcibly in all this is that, so far as concerns material aid, Hitler could grab it without opposition and without pay. True, he hasn't actually occupied Spain—although many German troops are said to be there—but there's nothing to stop him from appropriating anything he wants.

Take the case of the French warships, for instance. Why doesn't the nazi leader simply take 'em, without so much fuss and feathers, since he is the big boss of France? One good answer, in my view, is that he hasn't the trained men with which to replace the French officers and sailors.

Moral Support
So we might go on analyzing, and the further we proceed the more we see that neither France nor Spain has much material aid to offer anybody at this moment. Spain is utterly broken by her Civil war, and France is crushed in defeat. The greatest asset either of them has to bargain with right now is moral support.

And Hitler the conqueror—who could seize material gain—wishes to buy moral support because, forsooth, he can't take it by force. Why does he want it?

Hitler by my mind is preparing for a possible stalemate in the war with Britain—and a draw certainly can't be ruled out.

I believe he is consolidating his winnings on the continent, and biding for moral support, so that if he is unable to wrest victory from England he still can hold the vast gains he has made by conquest.

If Hitler can't carry out his dream of smashing the British empire, he intends still to be the lord of all continental Europe.

HELD IN EGG THROWING

War Situation Today Drive to Break Blockade Is Believed Next Aim of Hitler

Adolf Hitler was reported aiming today at a campaign to break the shackles of the British blockade by shifting the main theater of the war to the Mediterranean and attacking Britain's "life line" trade routes in the south Atlantic.

With the nazi invasion song "We are Sailing Against England" now apparently muted by R.A.F. assaults, the German fuhrer was said to be planning a two-fold winter strategy:

1. Italy and Spain would attempt to seize Britain's historic rock fortress at Gibraltar and crush British sea power in the Mediterranean.
2. At the time, Germany and Spain would smash at British trade with South America and her sea link with India via the Cape of Good Hope, using Spanish ports and airfields in the Atlantic and the Canary islands as bases.

Informed French sources said Hitler and French Vice Premier Pierre Laval, in secret conversations in the last 48 hours, had virtually sealed an agreement whereby the Vichy government of vanquished France would give the Rome-Berlin axis the use of naval and air bases in Africa, Syria and unoccupied France in return for certain concessions.

The naval bases would include Dakar, capital of French West Africa; Toulon, on France's Mediterranean coast; Casablanca, in French Morocco, and Biberte, in Tunisia.

As a reward, these sources said, Germany would release all French war prisoners—estimated at 2,000,000 men—and would move the frontier of unoccupied France north from the present Tours-Swiss border line to the Seine river.

Laval returned to Paris today with Premier Marshal Philippe Petain's answer to Hitler's proposals for a Franco-German rapprochement, and Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco, who conferred with Hitler on the Spanish-French frontier last night, was on his way back to Madrid.

Fascist quarters in Rome said important decisions were reached at the conference, decisions designed to restore Spain to a place of power in the Mediterranean.

Foreign observers in the Italian capital felt that an axis attack on Gibraltar, with the help of Spain, was indicated.

Beside this, the whirl of German diplomatic activity seemed to many to be pointing at the Suez and the Near Eastern oil fields as axis objectives of the near future.

Amid all this talk, the air war between Britain and Germany dragged on at a relatively slow pace.

From Shanghai came suggestions that Japan's alliance with Germany and Italy was fully equipped with an escape clause which in effect left it up to the discretion of any signer whether to help the others militarily.

LaCrosse Theater Sues Paramount Pictures

Madison—(P)—Trial of a $1,050,000 suit filed by the LaCrosse Theater Co., Inc. of LaCrosse, against Paramount Pictures for alleged injury to its business by refusal to release certain films for its use has been postponed to Oct. 30, the United States district court clerk's office announced today. The suit will be heard during the petit jury term.

Amid these developments in Europe, apparently concerted "trial balloons" were floated toward peace in the three year old struggle between Japan and China.

In San Francisco, retiring Japanese Ambassador Kenseku Horinouchi was quoted as saying a peace agreement lacking only "final official action" has been reached between China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and Wang Ching-Wei Japanese-dominated puppet ruler at Nanking, China.

Domei, the Japanese news agency reported also that former Japanese Premier Nobuyuki Abe, now special envoy to China, was en route home to Japan after reaching an agreement with the Nanking regime.

In Hong Kong, however, official Chinese quarters said China would never agree to any peace involving a sacrifice of her political or territorial integrity.

On the Mediterranean war stage, Mussolini's high command reported that British mechanized forces supported by artillery, attacked Italian outposts at two places near Sidi Barrani, Egypt, but were driven off "leaving some dead on the field, while some were injured on our side."

The Governorship of Wisconsin

If Wisconsin people familiarize themselves with the record and make up their minds to choose as governor the most competent man for the position it will be very difficult for them to vote for anyone but Francis E. McGovern, the Democratic candidate.

That is not a mere matter of opinion. It is supported by abundant record evidence.

Mr. McGovern was governor of Wisconsin for four years. Prior to that time he was a regular Tom Dewey prosecutor at Milwaukee when that city was brimming over with graft and corruption. He has always associated himself with those earnest public efforts at betterment that find it unnecessary to wheedle, bend or deceive. He couldn't be anything but straightforward.

The Chairman "Interprets" a Law

With a few deft swings of a sharp axe Mr. Flynn has made kindling out of the Hatch Act. Has the Hatch Act been so soon forgotten? It was only passed last June.

Has memory faded upon the fine purposes of the law which was aimed at preventing the use for political purposes of the tremendous federal bureaucratic machine and other persons on the government payroll?

And has the public forgotten the fine talk about abandoning the vicious practice of extorting political contributions from government employees, including those on the Civil Service?

Ah, well, get not your hopes too high. This is a practical world. At least that is the way practical politicians like Boss Flynn talk about it.

Measure carefully the jeweled words of this great man:

"Even where the type of government or state employ cannot engage in political activity or even make contributions their friends and relatives are in no way prohibited from such activities."

Now, Mr. Government Employee, when you answer the doorbell for Mr. Flynn's collector be advised he is calling on your wife or your father, and that it will be just too bad if they aren't generous. What do the humanitarians care if the government employees have to slip the money through intermediaries?

After the Hatch law was published some of these very simple-minded people who believed political promises made by the greatest word-breakers in history got the notion that government employees must not themselves solicit contributions from others to keep the great Praetorian army happy and on the march. But they hadn't taken into account the acute mind of Boss Flynn who now speaks like an oracle of old:

"All types of government employees may make contributions and may be solicited for contributions by persons not employed by the government."

Remember this strange quirk in the law, folks. If one is on the government payroll he must not be solicited by another on the government payroll. He must, instead, be solicited by one who hopes to get on the public payroll.

But there is more, and Boss Flynn does not want to leave the subject without a good stiff punch. Here are the words of the man who is destined for the cabinet of the Third Term:

"Anybody who is not on relief is permitted and can be urged to contribute within their means toward the reelection of President Roosevelt."

We hope no one misses those electric words, "can be urged." Most urging of this kind terminates with, "or else."

Mr. Flynn has provided a perfectly swell example of law and its interpretation. The gentleman does not say a single word about the letter of the law killing while the spirit giveth life. He is killing the letter and suffocating the spirit. He is substituting himself as and for the courts which have jurisdiction over the interpretation of laws and generally interpret them wisely and impartially, giving regard to both the language employed and the purpose in mind.

It is evident, of course, that the Hatch law is doader than the first Pharaoh. And what are you going to do about it? What can anyone do about it? Will the attorney general take a view contrary to the national chairman? What is congress anyway to pass laws that interfere with Humanity?

Let the money roll. Empty out the pockets of the millions who receive government checks. Nero is in eclipse. The orgy of lawlessness and corruption continues without abatement.

Give Senator Norris Your Ear

"Every President reaches out with his mighty hands into every hamlet, every crossroads, and every post office; every United States marshal, every United States district attorney, all the judges, all the United States officers everywhere are his appointees.

"Taking human nature as it is, and not as we would wish it to be, and every one of these officials feels somewhat of a personal obligation to the man who gave him his position. But that is not all, for we must take into consideration the selfishness, the jealousy and the avarice of political machines. He does not have to be, but if he wants to be, the President is at the head of the machine that is in power. He is at the head of a machine that has the entire country in its grasp, within its grip and can, through the power that he possesses, using the officials who are under him, and who range down to the lowest on the list, round up delegates. He can control conventions as no other man on earth can control them."

Thus spoke Senator Norris in the senate of the United States in 1928. Norris was then 68 years of age.

But age is no respecter of persons and mows down and crumbles all alike.

We prefer to think of the Norris of 1928 whose proudest moment then was in recalling that he had voted against the perfectly futile war in which we participated in 1917 the same Norris today clamors for war and a Third Term.

But truthful as is the above quotation from one of Senator Norris's addresses conditions today give every President "the kingly right" of renomination as never before.

For in 1928 there were only 540,000 federal employees. And Mr. Roosevelt, under a direct promise to reduce this number, has increased it over 100 per cent.

In 1928 the total federal budget was only three billions, of which only seven million was spent for public buildings. Today the budget has gone to about nine billions exclusive of war preparations. The WPA has 1,700,000 on its rolls. The CCC keeps 300,000 men employed at $30 a month and room and board. Almost every locality in this country has had money pushed upon it. Someone found that more than three thousand counties in the United States had not permitted PWA grants.

The power of the President to renominate himself which in 1928 Senator Norris described as "mighty" and above the power of any "other man on earth" has now become so utterly supreme that the Convention of Desolation at Chicago which "drafted" Mr. Roosevelt is the nearest approach America has ever seen to Goering's Reichstag.

Marching in the Great Parade

The banker who doesn't watch closely vital business trends may find himself the holder of commercial paper of losing ventures.

The lawyer who doesn't thumb every new statute, read all important decisions and even keep abreast of bureau rulings becomes next to useless to his clients.

The doctor and the dentist who do not attend the institutes provided to keep abreast of the rapidly changing medical and surgical technique may become mossbacks before many moons have waned.

The Graduate Fortnight was instituted in 1927 by the New York Academy of Medicine to secure for the medical fraternity as immediate reactions from medical discovery and experiment as could be obtained with safety to the patients whose wellbeing may depend upon the attention paid to this distribution of knowledge.

We may be living in the most extraordinary time in the remarkable history of medical science. Every little while the public is astonished at new achievements of test tubes and tireless experiment. One of the advantages of war with its widespread suffering and death is that it generally uncovers almost unbelievable progress in medical advancement and discovery.

Life, according to high medical authority, depends largely for its continuance upon an absence of infections or their destruction shortly after they enter the body. Military training and conscription are predicated upon physical well-being. And physical wellbeing demands numerous and careful medical tests of the young men who are available for service. The greatest assistant that disease probably has is carelessness. Neglect always gives tuberculosis a good start. And the natural optimism that directs so much of youthful conduct slurs over symptoms that to the medical mind sound an alarm as loud as a gong.

Institutes like Graduate Fortnight where new clinical and laboratory practices are recommended after receiving the acid test of practicality are most effective in taking up the slack between discovery of medical advantages and a pronouncement that they are ready for safe and reliable service.

Niteroy, Brazil, financed new construction and improvements by leveling a hill and selling the land thus made available.

The DAILY WASHINGTON

MERRY GO ROUND

PLAN MARK REGISTERED

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—To say that inner Democratic chiefs are alarmed over the campaign trend in the crucial middle west is putting it mildly. They are scared stiff.

The Gallup poll only confirmed the bad news, which had been pouring in for days in agitated messages from local campaign leaders. All screamed the same demand: "Get the president to climb off his lofty pedestal, come out west in person and start talking like a candidate for office. If he doesn't it will be just too bad."

Some of the more candid politicians also said the midwestern campaign organizations were honeycombed with incompetents and stuffed shirts who weren't worth the powder to sink them. Mayor Ed Kelly stormed into the national committee offices in Chicago and ordered a complete housecleaning of the dawdling speakers' bureau.

"Get some campaigners," he directed, "who will talk about Roosevelt and principles and not about themselves and how important they are."

Plain-talking Governor John Townsend of Indiana sent word to Washington that Roosevelt alone could provide the spark needed to set the campaign going; that in a two-week speaking tour in a half-dozen states, he had found the people feeling that if their votes were wanted they were worth being wooed.

Above all came the warning that the great mass of voters were profoundly fearful of war. This was rated the overshadowing issue of the campaign, and the reason for the large proportion of undecided voters in every state poll, ranging from 8 to as high as 22 per cent.

Privately, the Democratic leaders view these large doubtful blocs as an under tow that may prove to be a tidal wave of disaster on election day. Four years ago, when Roosevelt landed the midwest, the polls revealed no such proportion of doubtful voters.

ALOE FDR

Not in years was the inner Democratic command so unanimous on any point as on the urgent need for Roosevelt to take off his coat and get busy. In person, in long distance calls, letters and floods of telegrams they pleaded, argued and demanded that he come west.

But he stuck doggedly to his determination not to travel farther than twelve hours away from Washington. He agreed to make as many political speeches on the air as time could be bought for, but he wouldn't budge from his 12-hour limit.

The pleas for a trip to Chicago and Indianapolis were almost tearful. Mayor Kelly promised a turn-out of a half million people in Chicago, and Governor Townsend pledged 100,000 in Indianapolis an hour of the day or night. The heat is still on for this trip, and Roosevelt may yet decide to make it.

Note—Credit Senator Jimmy Byrnes, smart little South Carolinian, with persuading Senator Sheridan Downey, No. 1 congressional Townsendite, to take the air immediately after Senator Hiram Johnson's pro-Willkie declaration and endorse the third term. It took several weeks of the hardest kind of pleading to bring Downey round to crossing swords with his fellow-Californian, with whom he agrees on isolationism.

WIN WITH WILLKIE

Almost—but not quite—did President Roosevelt's chauffeur wear a Willkie button when he called at the White House to drive the president to the train.

The president was about to leave for Hyde Park, and chauffeur Montey Snyder was warming up the motor of the big touring car in the White House garage. Then he put on his overcoat, ready to go.

A flash of color caught his eye. He looked down at the lapel of his coat. "Win With Willkie!" He snatched the button off and looked around for the culprit.

He potted among the onlookers the grinning face of George Klenk, chauffeur to Sumner Welles. No doubt about it. Klenk was the joker.

PROFESSOR MOLEY'S HAM

When Raymond Moley, erstwhile New Dealer, appeared for Willkie in Richmond, Va., the crowning touch of the meeting was a ham act. To indicate that the farmers were turning from Roosevelt managers of the meeting arranged to have a Virginia farmer step up to the platform and present Moley with a token of rural regard. But there was a titter in the crowd when the token proved to be a ham.

Moley looked a little sheepish when he took the Virginia ham into his arms. The farmer had described it as "the emblem of our party."

The titter was even stronger, however, when Moley, in his address to the "Democrats for Willkie," attempted to say that a great force was sweeping out of the West to rid Washington of its New Deal crackpots. "A great wind," he said, "has come out of the West."

LABOR PEACE

Defense Commissioner Sidney Hillman soon will announce two surprise appointments to his labor advisory board.

They will be John P. Frey, head of the AFL metal trades department, and John Green, president of the CIO's shipbuilding workers union. The two men will be Hillman's special assistants in the shipbuilding field.

To many people these appointments may seem a routine matter. But to labor circles they are another coup of Hillman's in bringing warring AFL and CIO leaders together.

Frey and Green have long been on opposite sides of the fence. Frey long has been one of the most diehard opponents of the CIO in upper AFL ranks, having helped bounce Hillman and John L. Lewis from the AFL. Only a month ago he vigorously assailed Hillman at a private meeting of the AFL executive council.

Note—To date, Hillman and his labor advisory board have settled peaceably 157 threatened strikes, work stoppages and lockouts affecting over 675,000 workers. An average of 7,000 letters a week are received from rank-and-file union members commending these activities.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

A MOTHER SPEAKS

Do not pity me who have sons to send.
I have known many joyful years!
Remembered gladness will transcend
My secret tears.

Balanced against my loneliness
Is a parade of glowing days,
When children looked for me to bless
Their lives with praise.

Pity her more who is not sad
With the dark burden that I know.
Ah, weep for her who never had A son to go!

THE EMPTY TREASURY

Editor, Post-Crescent: May I direct your attention to two of the gravest abuses in Wisconsin political history:

1. Conservative war whoops which swept the state that Progressives were emptying the treasury for spite and there would be nothing with which to operate when the Heil Republican administration took office.

2. Governor Heil's flagrant acts of dictatorship in regard to paying out the highway funds the way he wanted to pay them out and not the way the legislature said they shall be paid. This was glaringly important because the people of the state failed to protect dictatorship action.

These acts should have been heartily condemned by fair debating conservatives who claim to be great preservers of sturdy citizenship and American principles. Have they? No. Several times I have challenged some of the conservative editors to publish the truth and accept their responsibility for a serious wrong of misrepresentation.

Today, Wisconsin is being swept with war whoops: Down with the LaFollettes. Away with the Progressives. LaFollettes and Progressives principals shall be driven from the state—is the pledge of several orators. Again, hate and emotion and distortion of facts rides the State of Wisconsin. Fair debating conservative editors should be the first to condemn such actions.

The Milwaukee Journal on September 18 had an editorial which stated: "The Progressives accomplished nothing. The Progressives left the treasury empty with a hole in the bottom."

Amazing statements. The question is, was the treasury emptied? Is there now a deficit or is there not a deficit? There was a deficit of sixteen million dollars between the sources of revenue and appropriations set up by the Heil Republican administration. If there is now no deficit from where did the money come?

I wrote the editor of the Milwaukee Journal, regarding the amazing statements:

"Is that what you believe? Or was this written by the one who went capering with that 'pardon our laughter' editorial of two years ago. Both belong in the same class of reasoning. . . . Are you still afraid to face your responsibility relative to the pack of snarling misrepresentations which swept the state relative to that empty treasury left by the Progressives? You participated in a wrong of misrepresentation and you have done nothing to attempt to make right that wrong and acknowledge your part of the responsibility. Are you proud of that editorial? Why don't you publish the arithmetic table setting up the true facts regarding the condition of the budget during the last Progressive biennium with the total unexpended sums carried over into the following Republican biennium and show the items not paid although ordered by the legislature. Are you afraid to do so?"

"You know what the facts were. A simple table of arithmetic sets them up. It is true, the Civil war debt should have been paid by legislative order. But the money was there with which to pay it. The biennial year started July 1, not January 1. The money was set aside for specified building, operating expenses, salaries to July 1. And then, remember, not an empty treasury on July 1, but three million dollars also there were the receipts. For that last six months' period from January 1 to July 1. The Civil war debt was not paid. That money remained in the treasury. Building operations specified by the legislature were not carried through—when the money was there. The legislature and the governor were required to provide sources of revenue for the biennium starting July 1. What was that total sum of receipts from the previous biennium—carried over. The Journal participated in a great wrong of misrepresentation. What are you going to do about it?"

What the Milwaukee Journal did was to announce "The Progressives left the treasury empty with a hole in the bottom." I wrote the editor and directed his attention to the deficit of over sixteen million dollars in the budget set up by this Heil Republican administration between sources of revenue and appropriations and asked, if there is now no deficit—from where did the money come? I suggested he remember that treasury was empty, although, yelling it was empty, Alice in Wonderland fashion, did not make it empty. He was asked to remember the prosperous times under the last Progressive administration, the electricity consumed in Milwaukee, the Christmas conditions of 1937. And then to remember some glaring spots in the history of this Republican administration, the Heil crack over the legislature about "wine, women, and song legislation." He was asked to look over the accomplishments of the Progressives and read again the editorial: "Progressives accomplished nothing."

2. Governor Heil grabbed the axe of dictatorship and said he would pay the highway funds the way he wanted to pay them and not the way the legislature said they shall be paid. Anyway with the legislature—"I, Heil, am the boss." Did conservative editors rise up in wrathful indignation because a dictator's orders governed Wisconsin and legislative law was abolished? No.

Again the Journal paraded support of dictatorship. With a highly polished literary parade of words, the Journal advanced the ingenious

Beyond the Balkans Lies Oil

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—One of the problems arising out of the biennial elections which have been traditional in the Wisconsin state government is that the capitol comes to a virtual standstill during the last six months of almost every two year period.

Governor Heil's prolonged absence from his capitol desk is not unusual. Rather it is typical. He can scarcely be expected to be altruistic enough to remain at his job when political opponents are burning up the highways trying to take that job away from him. Like every other governor, Heil has found that the principal problem of his second year in office has been political.

The result, however, has been that the state government has been static, important policy decisions have been postponed, only the routine has been approved, during several recent months.

CLINT BALLARD

An almost forgotten figure nowadays, but a well-known political personality several decades ago, is C. B. Ballard, veteran political campaigner of the early days of the century who gravitated from Socialism to LaFollettism, and now, at the age of 80, is doing his bit for an old friend who is running on the Republican ticket, Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state.

Well-known years ago as a stormy, rampant politician, Ballard spent most of his adult life in Outagamie county, but now lives outside of Madison. He lives now with his vibrant memories of a long life in politics, memories that include many fascinating stories of eventful days in state history.

HOW IT STARTED

This column has found out the origin of the label "Spike" which friends of Orland S. Loomis, Progressive candidate for governor, have used ever since he entered Progressive politics 20 years ago. Loomis relates that when he was a boy one of his father's neighbors returned from the Spanish American war battles mourning the loss of a comrade in arms who was called "Spike," and whose family name was also Loomis. The veteran tagged the young neighbor "Spike" and it has remained with him ever since.

ECONOMY

The Progressive cry to Governor Heil's campaign boasts about his economy record has uniformly been the charge that Heil's budget cuts represented "false economy." It is therefore worthy of note that the Heil administration's speech-making and publicity has made little of what in the eyes of capitol observers is one of the most significant economy records in the statehouse, the budget pruning of the attorney general's department.

The legal costs of the state have decreased so appreciably during the last two years as to make it likely that the Republicans should be gratified to make the record public. Yet for some reason they have glossed over it, although the saving of thousands of dollars in special counsel fees seems to many people to be a point at least as important as some of the items of which the governor is making note in his campaign talks.

COMPARISONS

There have been some comparisons made lately about the respective expenditures of the Republican and Progressive parties, the two principal contestants in the state campaign, and the intensity of their vote-gathering efforts.

Although it is doubtless true that the Republicans' campaign payroll currently is considerably greater than that of their Progressive opponents, a fact frequently overlooked is that the Progressives have a year-round campaign instrument in their 40 year old weekly newspaper. The Republicans have no comparable organ, which is something that has brought a lot of wondering among party men, but no explanation.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SOME OTHER CHAP

Altho I have been a Brady fan for many years, (writes Mrs. E. S.) I still don't believe that you can turn a somersault.

(Time out while I groan. Is the lady going to reopen the controversy between Webster and Brady concerning somersaults?)

It dates back to Chicago at the beginning of the present WAR. I was a speaker at some sort of medical meeting—how they happened to ask a non-medic to speak there I don't know—but having a rare chance to talk to the medical men I related my experience with somersaults or attempts at it. I had tried it across the bed, falling off, barking my shins and nearly dislocating my neck. Lillian Russell was there, and her nephew and my son had been fellow regimenters in the Eleventh Engineers in France, so we felt like in-laws together. I said I was determined, if ever I met this Dr. Brady, to test him out—to demand that he turn me a sample somersault, just to see if he could manage it. A roar of laughter went up, and looks and fingers turned toward a seat far down the table from me, and a kindly person whispered that Dr. Brady was present in person. So I boldly asked that you step out and demonstrate the technique of somersaulting there in the center of the room where all could see you. I pleaded that there were too many tables scattered over the floor for safety, and as the purpose of the meeting was to promote safety. . . . But I still believe every word you write—except about somersaults. (E. S.)

Confidentially, Mrs. S. I'd never let such impedimenta interfere with my somersaults. But when you called on me to roll you a few I was right in the middle of an interesting chat with Sir Francis Drake and Napoleon Bonaparte, and as it was the first time Francis, Bony and I had met since 1933.

Seriously, unless I was unconscious at the time of which you speak Me'am, I was probably right here at home, rolling, rolling somersaults, lawn bowls or something. If some queer geek with a red nose and long beard impersonated me at the meeting it was just for fun. However, now that you and I are practically next door neighbors, Mrs. S., do stop in when you're around this way, any time, or if it is in the afternoon you'll find me over on the bowling green. I'll be delighted to roll a few for you or with you, forward or backward. Somersaults or bowls or both. If perchance you are still laboring under the misapprehension that somersault means a leap in which a person turns heels over head without touching the ground with any portion of his body, please don't complain to me if you get hurt trying it. In the kind of somersault I advocate for instructions send stamped envelope, bearing your address, ask for "Dr. Brady's Somersaulting" the body never for an instant loses contact with ground or floor. And I advise turning them on the ground or floor—not across the bed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Sulfuric Acid Fumes

Working in digester room in paper mill, I get a lungful of the fumes of sulfuric acid three or four times a day. Is this harmful to the teeth or the lungs? Will chewing tobacco protect me against any harmful effects? (H. J. W.)

Answer—It is merely slightly irritating to the upper breathing passages, not harmful to health or the teeth.

Looking Backward
25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Oct. 28, 1915

The entire French cabinet's resignation was announced that day. President Poincaré asked Briand to form a new ministry. The shakeup was attributed mainly to general dissatisfaction with the government's foreign policy, especially in connection with the German diplomatic victory which had brought Bulgaria into the war.

William Keller, O. D., returned the previous day from Milwaukee where he took an examination before the state board of optometry in compliance with a law passed at the last session of the legislature requiring all practicing optometrists to take an examination and pay a license fee. Mr. Keller passed the tests.

The truck team of no. 1 fire department, Barney and Tom, were to conclude their long and faithful service in a few days when the new piece of motor apparatus was to arrive. The horses had been put up for sale.

10 YEARS AGO
Thursday, Oct. 23, 1930

Although handicapped by cold weather, construction work had been progressing at a rapid rate on the new Irving Zuelke building at the intersection of College avenue and Oneida street.

The first annual ball of the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce was to be held at Buile des Morts clubhouse Thursday evening, Oct. 30. Norman Dragset was general chairman.

A new building program to bring the United States fleet up toward the limits of the London treaty had been drawn up by the navy general board. It was to be studied by President Hoover as a basis for recommendations to congress at its next session.

NATIONAL OFFICER HONORED—Mrs. Robert W. Higbie, Jamaica, N. Y., national alumnae secretary of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, was honored by the Lawrence college active chapter of the sorority at a tea Wednesday afternoon at the Pan-Hellenic house. Shown here are, reading from the left, Miss Patty Ladwig, Milwaukee; Mrs. Higbie; Miss Margaret Banto, Menasha, president of the Lawrence chapter; and Miss Beverly Humleker, Fond du Lac, corresponding secretary. Dance at Gymnasium Will Highlight Social Events At Lawrence Homecoming

Social events being planned for the Lawrence college homecoming this weekend are highlighted by the annual homecoming dance Saturday night at Alexander gymnasium. It will be informal, and in addition to dancing, the program will include the awarding of prizes for the winning house decorations and floats.

Other social events planned for Saturday are the open house affairs at Brookway hall and the fraternity houses after the game Saturday afternoon and the alumni homecoming dinner at 6:30 that evening at Hotel Appleton.

American Legion auxiliary will sponsor a benefit party at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the Legion clubhouse. The committee consists of Mrs. B. E. Bewick, Mrs. Floyd Hardacker, Mrs. Owen Kuehner, Mrs. Ervin Zumach and Mrs. Wright Smith.

Mrs. Beecher Roberts, 821 E. Minor street, entertained at a birthday party Tuesday afternoon in honor of her son, Serge, who was two years old. Sandra Jean Wundinger and Gary Elworth, Kaukauna, won special prizes and the other little guests were presented with favors. They were Joan Kuehler, Barbara and Jerry Yingling, Judy and Jackie Chopin and Dickie Latimer, Appleton.

The last of a series of card parties given by Christian Mothers society of St. Therese church took place Wednesday afternoon at the parish hall with 15 tables in play. Mrs. Harry Bunks won the grand prize at bridge and Mrs. Frieda Shinnners at schafkopf. Prizes for the day went to Mrs. Robert Ebbesen and Mrs. Ralph Moehring at bridge and Mrs. R. Walters and Mrs. Peter Williamson at schafkopf, while the special prize was won by Mrs. W. J. Schultze.

With 144 match points Mr. and Mrs. John N. Schneider won first place for east and west in the contract bridge tournament of Knights of Columbus last night at the Catholic club. Mrs. Sophia Douglas and Mrs. M. S. Peerenboom won second with 136½ points and tying for third with 121½ points were Carl Becher and E. J. Van Vonderdonk, and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Konrad.

For north and south Mrs. M. A. Schuh and Mrs. J. I. Monaghan won first with 142 points; Mrs. Carl Becher and Mrs. E. J. Van Vonderdonk took second place with 126, and Mrs. J. Plank and Mrs. Robert L. Rechner won third with 121 points.

Christian Mothers society of St. Mary church will sponsor a card party at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Schafkopf and bridge will be played.

Amid Halloween decorations of cats, bats, witches and jack-o-lanterns Arthur L. Zerber, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Zerber, Sr., route 2, Appleton, celebrated his second birthday anniversary last evening by entertaining a group of little friends. As the birthday cake revolved on a musical cake plate which played "Happy Birthday" the guests joined in singing the song to their host. Games entertained the children and favors were given to all.

Those present were Rockie Rechner, Jimmy Potter, Ronnie Kenny,

A costume Halloween party is being planned by Women's Union of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church for 7:30 next Thursday night, Oct. 31, at Moose hall. Although the committee is anxious to have everyone come in costume, those who do not "dress up" are invited to attend also.

Games and other entertainment will be provided. Mrs. Herman Bardenhagen is chairman of entertainment and Mrs. Peter Bast of refreshments.

Eleven tables of cards were in play at the open party given by Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles Wednesday night at Eagle hall. Alvin Boehme, Mrs. C. H. Lamb, Miss Loma Rocks and Mrs. Emma Brown won schafkopf prizes and Mrs. Walter Shepherd the dice award.

Changed again, and this time it's final, the committee says, is the date for the Service circle's Thanksgiving dance. It will be given Saturday, Nov. 23, at the Conway hotel. Planned originally for Nov. 30 and then changed to Nov. 22 when Governor Heil decided to make Wisconsin's Thanksgiving day the same as the nation's, Nov. 21, the date was changed to Nov. 23 yesterday afternoon when the circle heard that it could have the hotel for that night in spite of a previous report to the contrary. Miss Constance Flanagan is chairman of the committee which has been having all the trouble.

Christian Mothers society of Sacred Heart church entertained 12 tables of cards at the fifth of a series of parties last night in the school hall. Schafkopf winners were John Woller and Joseph Fischer, bridge awards went to Mrs. Walter Bell and Mrs. Ferd Haberman, skat prizes to Peter Wilz and William O'Neill, and court whist awards to Mrs. Mike Kugler, Jr., and Mrs. John Stoeger.

A chicken supper at Polivka's resort near Manitowoc entertained the Congenial club last evening. Those who attended were Mrs. George Wittman, Mrs. Stephen Balliet, Mrs. Walter Steenis, Mrs. Mayme Rossmessl, Mrs. Genevieve

Friendship Is Theme as Lodge Meets

About 300 persons attended the Friendship night meeting of Fidelity chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Wednesday night at the Masonic temple. Visitors from Sheboygan Falls, Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Two Rivers, Kaukauna, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Omro, Winneconne, Menasha, New London and Kaukauna were among those present. Guest officers from visiting chapters put on the initiatory work, during which four candidates were initiated.

NEW HARD-WATER SUDS WON'T "GRAY" STOCKING COLORS

Are you sick of using soap that just won't suds in this hard water? Then here's a new and different suds that bursts into mountains of rich, billowy suds in hardest water. Yes, Vel makes 3 times more suds than any soap, cup for cup, in hardest water. In fact, the harder the water the bigger the suds. You don't have to rub and soak the life out of dainty things. Just a swish in Vel's rich suds and soil and staleness vanish like magic from stockings, underwear, and all fine fabrics. Yet Vel's suds make no horrid, hard-water scum to gray the fresh delicate colors of stockings and other dainty garments. That's why everything washed with Vel comes out so radiant, fresh and new looking. Buy Vel today and see why women with "hard-water blues" now sing the praises of this new suds.

Agricultural Schools Praised by Educator

Columbus, O.—Educators assembled here for the inauguration of Dr. Howard L. Bevis as president of Ohio State University Friday, were advised today that a university agricultural school is society's highest provision for the intelligent and constructive service of the farm population.

That view was expressed by Dr. Albert R. Mann of New York, vice president of the general education board, in a talk prepared for a pre-inauguration discussion.

The agriculture college "searches out the solution of problems of controlling importance," he said. "It prepares young men and women for competent operation and leadership in this most essential of industries."

Rev. Peter Grosnick Of Sherwood Will Go To Kaukauna Parish

A number of Catholic pastors and assistants in this vicinity are affected by the transfers announced today for the Green Bay diocese by the Most Rev. Paul P. Rhode, bishop. The transfers become effective Nov. 6.

The Rev. Peter Grosnick, now pastor of Sacred Heart, Sherwood, has been transferred to the pastorate of Holy Cross parish, Kaukauna, succeeding the Rev. August Garbhaus, retired, and the Rev. John Nuernberg pastor of St. Joseph's church, Wautoma, will go to Sacred Heart church, Sherwood, as pastor.

The Rev. George Weix who has been pastor of St. John church, Gillett, and of St. Michael's mission at Suring, will become pastor of the Wautoma church, while the Rev. Richard Keller, assistant at Most Precious Blood church, New London, will succeed Father Weix at Gillett and Suring. To New London, as assistant to the Very Rev. Raymond Fox, dean, and pastor will go the Rev. Arnold Schmidt who has been assistant at St. Margaret Mary church at Neenah.

The Rev. Peter Zay, pastor of St. Patrick church, Lebanon, will become pastor of St. Anthony church, Marinette, succeeding the Rev. Matthias Alt who goes to St. Joseph church, Oconto. The Rev. Alvin Auer, assistant at St. John church, Green Bay, will become pastor of St. Patrick's at Lebanon.

Leaving Kimberly The Rev. Alfred Bielbas, assistant at Holy Name church, Kimberly, will succeed Father Auer as assistant to the Rev. John J. Loeck at St. John church, Green Bay. The Rev. Aloysius Pimeskern, who has been assistant at St. Joseph's church, Oconto, will come to Kimberly as assistant to the Rev. C. B. Vanden Borne at Holy Name church.

The Rev. Joseph Schullist, assistant at St. John church, Menasha, will go to River Pines sanatorium, Stevens Point, as chaplain, and the Rev. Francis Wenger will come from the seminary to be assistant to the Rev. S. A. Elbert at St. John church, Menasha.

when the workers of today become old enough to apply for them; or that the election of the present government means the end of American democracy within four years.

"I think I know, and I know we know, that all of these statements are false."

The president took up issue by issue raised by the Republican nominee during the campaign and branded his charges as "falsehoods." He said:

"The worst bombshell of fear which the Republican leaders have let loose on this people is the accusation that this government, without the knowledge of the congress or of the people, has secretly entered into agreements with foreign nations. They even attacked the security of the United States, or have pledged the participation of the United States in some foreign war."

The president told his wildly cheering audience of some 15,000 that the "time has come" for him to call attention of the nation to "deliberate or unwitting falsifications of fact." He declared:

"Certain techniques of propaganda, created and developed in dictator countries have been imported into this campaign. It is the very simple technique of repeating false-hoods, with the idea that by constant repetition and with no contradiction, the misstatements will finally come to be believed."

"Dictators have had great success in using this technique."

"I make the charge now that these falsifications are being spread for the purpose of filling the minds and hearts of the American people with fear. They are used to create fear by instilling in the minds of the people doubt of each other, doubt of their government and doubt of their democracy."

Mr. Roosevelt said the American people would not be stampeded "into panic" and "they will not be

Pep Rally to be Lead-Off Event

Lawrence Homecoming Opens Friday Night; Coe Grid Team Is Foe

A pep rally Friday night on the river bank behind the campus will pull off the lid on the annual Lawrence homecoming.

The greatest interest will center on the Lawrence-Coe game Saturday afternoon at Whiting field, but returning alumni will find reunions, banquets and dances to entertain them.

The Lawrence freshmen team will battle the St. Norbert squad at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon in a game to which the public will be admitted free.

House decorations will be judged at 5:30 Friday afternoon. The judges are W. S. Baldinger, associate professor of art; F. Theodore Cloak, associate professor of speech and dramatics; Mrs. A. C. Denney; and Mrs. Nancy B. Thomas, Appleton librarian.

The homecoming parade will start at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The Appleton Post-Crescent is awarding trophies for the best fraternity and sorority floats in the parade and the best fraternity house decorations.

Today's Deaths

Mrs. Anna Witt

Mrs. Anna Witt, 53, route 1, Medina, died at a New London hospital at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening after a 4-week illness. Born in the town of Wolf River Dec. 13, 1886, Mrs. Witt lived in Dale and vicinity for 30 years.

Surviving are her father, Carl Toepke, Fremont; two sons, Emil, Alfred, Dale; two daughters, Mrs. Oscar Flunker Medina; Mrs. Stanley Peterson, Chicago; three brothers, Gustave, Eric and Albert Toepke, Fremont; three sisters, Mrs. Arthur Kaufman, Mrs. Palmer Grossman, Dale, Mrs. Charles Mink, Fremont, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1:30 Saturday afternoon at the residence and at 2 o'clock at Reformed church, Dale, by the Rev. Victor Grossheusch. Burial will be in Union cemetery, Dale. The body may be viewed at the residence after 7 o'clock this evening.

The ovation accorded the chief executive last night was a climax to a day in which he had appeared before tens of thousands of people at Wilmington, Del., and on a 40 mile motor tour to national defense plants in Philadelphia and Camden, N. J.

Afterward he left for Washington, where he speaks by telephone this afternoon to the New York Herald Tribune forum in New York.

Schools to Remain Open, Board Decides After Paralysis Study

The Appleton Board of Health yesterday analyzed the infantile paralysis situation in Appleton and decided not to close the schools, according to Dr. F. J. Huberty, city physician and health officer.

After a survey of all patients and contacts since the first case was reported in Appleton, the board concluded the disease has not been communicated through contact. No patient so far, Dr. Huberty said, has given the disease to relatives or friends.

The board decided to continue to regulate patients and contacts under board of health rules and the health department will investigate cases as they are reported and isolate them.

Dr. Huberty said that no remedy for the disease of any value has been advanced to date and he advised persons who are ill to see their family physicians for diagnosis. There are two active cases of infantile paralysis in Appleton and a third Appleton person is isolated with the disease at Milwaukee.

widely with forcing the German air force to pull its punches for the second night in succession.

King George VI last night appointed John Huthorn Hall, 48, British resident of Zanzibar since 1937, as governor of Aden, vital middle east outpost of the empire.

The baffling and controversial questions of Britain's defenses against Adolf Hitler's air offensive were debated today by the two houses of parliament in secret sessions. Commons went into closed session after Clement R. Attlee, lord privy seal, had told a questioner that it was "premature" to approach the United States and soviet Russia concerning post war collaboration on relief, reconstruction and international cooperation.

Bitter questioning was provoked in commons over the loss of the aircraft carrier Glorious with 1,204 officers and men off Narvik, Norway, last June.

Questioners demanded to know why "no adequate steps were taken to rescue many hundreds of survivors who remained 48 hours afloat on rafts."

Labor's increasingly critical attitude toward the government was reflected in questions.

Sir Victor Warrender, financial secretary of the admiralty acknowledged that British aircraft and ships passed close to the rafts from the Glorious, but "unfortunately did not see them."

Clerk's Office To be Clearing House for Draft

Hantschel Receiving Registration Cards Signed Out of County

The county clerk's office will be a clearing house for registration cards signed by Outagamie county residents outside of the county on registration day last week, according to John E. Hantschel, county clerk.

Cards already are being received by Hantschel from other counties and will be turned over to the board in the proper county district. Instructions have been received by Hantschel to turn over the registration cards signed last week to the three district boards. The boards are to meet Thursday night to make arrangements for assigning serial numbers.

Ten pages of minute instructions were sent out from Washington today to forewarn the clerks of 6,500 local draft boards against errors that might cast reflection on the outcome of next Tuesday's national draft lottery.

Stressing again the need for "absolute accuracy," the manual of information for local board clerks, sent out from national selective headquarters, said:

Warning to Boards "However unintentional and innocent an error may be, it is always possible that registrants and their friends may charge that the local board and members of its clerical staff are unjust."

Designed to accelerate preparations for the lottery, the pamphlet gave detailed instructions for shuffling and serial-numbering the registration cards of 17,000,000 young men who enrolled for the lottery last week.

Enough numbers, from one upwards, will be drawn in the lottery to cover the largest number of registrants in any one local board area, and men will be called to service in the order in which their numbers are drawn, unless deferred.

While hastening lottery arrangements, national headquarters announced that, in cooperation with the army's surgeon general, it would collect statistics on the health of draft-age men to be used as another weapon against disease.

Every registrant examined will take a blood test for syphilis. The two major defects of each man examined will be listed on a card, whether or not he is accepted for service, and will form the basis of a statistical study of disease in a representative cross-section of the nation's young men.

Anonymous Donor Furnishes Guards With Spending Money

Appleton guardsmen, who left Tuesday night for a year of training at Camp Beauregard, La., didn't leave town without money in their pockets.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., said that an anonymous donor gave Company D 123 silver dollars, one for each man. He gave the money so the men would have it to spend for cigarettes and refreshments on their way south, Mayor Goodland said.

The presentation of the silver dollars was to have been made at the railroad station before the guardsmen left for the south but because of the huge crowd at the depot, it was impossible, the mayor said.

City Industry Opens Doors to 1,000 Visitors

Fox River Mill Will Be Open to General Public Friday Night

About 1,000 people have visited Appleton industries during "open house" periods this week, one of the phases of the program for public understanding of private enterprise, Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, reported.

About 750 people were guests of the Appleton Coated Paper company last night. The Appleton Wood Products and Atlas Mill were hosts to visitors earlier this week.

The Fox River Paper corporation will open the doors of its Telulah mill to the general public from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock Friday night. The Western Condensing company will be host to employees and families the same evening.

The Fox River corporation will have conducted tours through the Telulah mill, where many workers will work over-time to give the public a glimpse of actual operations. Telulah mill is on Island street near Lawe street. The city police department will cooperate in coordinating parking.

Cloudy Skies Will Remain

Temperatures Warmer Tonight, Bureau Says; 52 in Appleton Today

A thin drizzle of rain fell from leaden skies this morning in Appleton, but it was short-lived. The dark clouds that hung over the city and vicinity today will remain through tomorrow, the weatherman says.

Temperatures will be warmer tonight, the Milwaukee bureau says, and in eastern Wisconsin tomorrow. The thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building stood at 52 at 12:30 this afternoon.

Yesterday's maximum was 63 degrees at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, according to the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. The minimum for the 24-hour period was 38 at 6 o'clock this morning.

Phoenix, Ariz., with 92, and Park Falls, 77, stood at the top and bottom of the nation's weather chart yesterday.

The ancient roman chariots were built with a clearance of 4 feet, 8 1/2 inches between wheels.

Major Roles Indicated for Spain, France

The French fleet in the war against Spain.

(These reports said the naval base would fall to the axis would include Dakar, capital of French West Africa; Toulon, on the French Mediterranean coast; Casablanca, French Morocco; the Bizerte, in Tunisia.)

Each Agreement

Berlin — (AP) — Informed circles in Berlin said tonight that Germany is a complete understanding of the strategic and economic position in Spain as the result of her civil war and that it is too much to expect Spain to join the war against England—at least at present.

However, in reviewing the situation the authoritative news commentary, Dienst aus Deutschland, stated it was no wonder if Spain regards the fight of the axis powers against England as a way to freedom from her own historical entanglement.

Authorized German sources declined to comment directly today on the results of Adolf Hitler's meeting yesterday with Generalissimo Francisco Franco by Spain, but said cryptically that events now transpiring on the continent added proof that Britain, the "father of the encirclement idea," is now encircled.

As a general diagnosis, these sources said Spain already "has concrete evidence of the positive interest of the axis in Spain's renaissance."

(In Rome fascist quarters forecast important decisions designed to return Spain to a position of power in the Mediterranean would grow out of the Hitler-Franco meeting.)

The same sources recalled that Germany had given Spain "conclusive proof" of her friendship for the Franco movement in the Spanish civil war and said there "has been a de facto comradeship in arms" between them.

DNB, official German news agency, earlier reported that the conversations between Hitler and Franco were concluded last night.

A German communique said that

British fliers during the night attempted a "large scale attack" upon Berlin but only a few of them reached the capital to drop incendiary bombs, incendiary leaflets and a few explosive bombs.

Heavy combat units attacked London last night, the high command announced, after unfavorable weather yesterday limited the Nazi air force activity over England to "armed reconnaissance."

Fascist Forecast

Rome — (AP) — Fascist quarters forecast today that important decisions designed to restore to Spain a position of power in the Mediterranean would result from Adolf Hitler's meeting yesterday with Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

In the absence of more specific information, foreign observers interpreted this as meaning Spain's early entrance into the European war preliminary to an axis attack on the British stronghold of Gibraltar.

Il Popolo di Roma asserted that "deeds will spring forth from the conversation" without indicating what they might be.

There was a general disposition to regard Hitler's talk with Franco as part of a vast program of axis political activity in which the Führer's meeting with Franco's Vice Premier Pierre Laval also is a link.

In connection with that meeting Il Resto del Carlino indicated the Germans had sought to prevent a revival of pro-British sympathies in France.

Groundwork Laid

Bern, Switzerland — (AP) — Adolf Hitler's talks with Vice Premier Pierre Laval of France and Generalissimo Francisco Franco were bound together today by reports they had laid the groundwork for an axis offensive not only in the Mediterranean but in the south Atlantic as well.

Informed French sources said Hitler and Laval had put the finishing touches to an agreement whereby the Vichy government would give the axis powers use of air and naval bases in Africa, Syria and unoccupied France in return for certain concessions.

At the same time reports reaching diplomatic quarters indicated that one of the subjects discussed by Hitler and Franco was the possible use of Spanish ports and airfields in the Atlantic and the Canary Islands as a springboard for national income today would be more than $100,000,000,000."

The Republican candidate spoke to the New York gathering shortly after Mr. Roosevelt finished. Mrs. Ogdin Reid of the Herald Tribune, introducing Willkie, said the candidates had been invited to appear together but that the president preferred to speak at the closing session today (by radio) as has been his usual custom.

Willkie, who spent the remainder of the evening campaigning from the Bronx to the lower east side, charged in his prepared speech that the "unprecedented powers" of the New Deal were behind the causes "of the long continuance of the depression."

"The concentration of power in America," he said, "has hurt every democracy and helped every rising dictator."

Declaring that there has been a trend, "partly accidental, partly deliberate, toward the establishment of state domination over our lives," Willkie continued:

"In a modern state, control over money is a primary instrument of power. . . . At this moment the president holds powers over the money and credit system of the country, comparable to those of any dictator."

Al Smith Speaks

While Mr. Roosevelt and Willkie took top billing, Alfred E. Smith, former New York governor and 1928 Democratic presidential nominee, returned to the political wars with a speech at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. He termed the New Deal "the greatest aggregation of crackpots" in world history.

President Roosevelt returned to his white house desk after the Philadelphia speech. He was scheduled for a late afternoon radio talk to the Herald Tribune forum today, but this was expected to be non-political.

The No. 2 men on Republican and Democratic tickets meanwhile were concentrating on middle west territory.

Senator McNary, the Republican vice presidential choice, told an audience at Bloomington, Ill., yesterday that the administration's agricultural policies might bring the nation's farmers to "the status of a peasant." He also charged there was a "kick-back" drive to get farmers to contribute part of farm benefit checks to the democratic campaign fund.

New Farm Problem

Former Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the Democratic vice presidential nominee spoke at Springfield, Ill., of the "new and unpleasant problems" agriculture would face no matter who won the war in Europe. Outlining a proposal for supplying surplus crops to post-war

Pastor, Formerly at Kaukauna, Succumbs

Milwaukee — (AP) — The Rev. Philip H. Mason, 86, who served Congregational churches at Lancaster, Hartland and Kaukauna, died yesterday. He retired 12 years ago.

England and the impoverished continent, he said such a program would be impossible under the Republican administration "that believes that all money spent to strengthen our situation is poured down a rat hole."

Other campaigners continued their appeals to the electorate. A Pittsburgh rally heard Republican National Chairman Martin assert that Mr. Roosevelt had set up "the greatest, the most corrupt, most arrogant and most expensive political bureaucracy ever fastened on this nation."

Attorney General Jackson at Washington declared that Willkie was leading a "persistent fight against the conservation of property along with men" and was thus "guilty of placing profits before defense."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said in a speech at Marion, Ind., that Mr. Roosevelt's 1936 victory "was construed by him to justify the court-packing bill" and "it would be just as easy to construe a victory in 1940 as a mandate to plunge the United States into the European war."

Raymond Moley, sometime White House adviser, asserted at a "no-third-term-day" rally in New York that a Democrat who votes for Willkie "votes for a resurrection of his party."

SPAM $2 BILLS RAPIDLY COVER LOCAL AREA

Residential Areas And Factories Visited

BY THE SPAM GIRL

An honest opinion should never go unrecorded. Who was it that said "I don't believe what you say, but I will defend with death your right to say it." Well, it doesn't make much difference who said it, but he has given us something to think about.

We Spam Men and Spam Girls not only defend your right to say something, but we believe what you say. We may be a little contrary to the great poet's bit of cynicism, but everyone knows that Spam is good and by defending one's right to say it, we will pay a crisp, new $2 bill.

All that you have to do is to prove that you are a user of Spam by having a Spam key with attached metal strip, or some bit of evidence; an empty can or a full can of Spam. Most important of these is the key and metal strip because you can carry it with you at all times—in the theatre, while shopping, or in the house. This little key is not so large that it is inconvenient to carry in your purse or pocket. Let's not "miss the boat" folks. Get those keys and metal strips off the Spam cans and have every member of the family carry one. The key and metal strip is only proof that you use Spam—your opinion is the reason we pay $2. An honest opinion shall then be rewarded.

While crossing the Fox River bridge yesterday, I met Mrs. EDW. KNUJIT, 420 So. Maple St.; Mrs. KNUJIT had just purchased a new can of Spam and was greatly surprised to be stopped by one of us at such an unusual spot—folks, we may stop you anywhere. It seems that Mr. Knujit is fond of "Spam-bled" eggs. You are welcome to the $2, Mrs. Knujit.

I met MISS LILLIAN HERRMANN, 330 E. College Ave. in front of Montgomery Ward's. No sooner had I identified myself when out of her purse came the Spam key and attached metal strip. "Spam is very convenient to keep on hand for emergencies and is delicious served with waffles," said Mrs. Herrmann. This opinion was worth $2.

MRS. FRED VOLKMAN, 214 W. Parkway, had both an empty can and a full can. I Spam. As I handed Mrs. Volkman the crackly, new $2 bill, she said that there were so many reasons why she liked Spam that she hardly knew what to say. Believe me, Mrs. Volkman, we have said more than enough.

Congratulations on your anniversary, MRS. JOHN F. GREEN, 1517 N. Superior St. I hope that the new $2 bill makes a lovely gift. There may be more such gifts for you and your friends if you continue to carry those Spam keys and metal strips.

MRS. R. E. NAGREEN, 1414 N. Alvin St. likes Spam because it's easy to fall back on when unexpected guests. Mrs. Nagreen has tried imitations of Spam but has found all of them very unsatisfactory. Nothing but Spam will be found in her house in the future.

Enjoy the new $2 bill, Mrs. NAGREEN. GEORGE WILSON, R. R. 2, uses Spam in his lunches. According to Mr. Wilson, his mother had given him the key and attached metal strip not long before I approached him.

With that $2 bill, you certainly can carry a lot of Spam in your lunches now, Mr. Wilson.

Here are some of the other names of Spam users: ROBERT C. PITT, 907 W. Oklahoma St.; MRS. MARY STARCK, 1017 W. Lorain St.; MRS. WAM GREENWOOD, 1331 W. Prospect Ave.; MRS. E. W. ZWANZIGER, 1328 S. You can easily see by the many names, folks, that we Spam Men and Spam Girls are paying out many $2 bills. The list today was exceptionally long; in fact, too long to have all the names printed. Look tomorrow, yours may be included.

All of these names prove two things: people are eating a lot of Spam, and they are carrying those keys and metal strips from opened Spam cans, which, by the way, is very important. Are you carrying yours?

Hull Would be Kept on Job if Willkie Is Named

This Interpretation Put on Pledge Given By GOP Candidate

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Enroute in the Middle West—Cordell Hull will be asked to serve as secretary of state if Wendell Willkie is elected president. This is the interpretation which friends of Mr. Willkie said today should be placed on the pledge given by the Republican nominee in his Chicago speech to the effect that he would appoint the ablest man in the country familiar with foreign affairs as secretary of state.

This promise is regarded as of the utmost importance because it insures continuity of foreign policy by the man most experienced in the field. There seems little doubt but that Mr. Hull would agree to serve. For one thing few men have ever refused to serve their country when drafted by a president of the United States. In times of emergency, presidents succeed in summoning men from the opposite political party as Mr. Roosevelt, for instance, did when he called Messrs. Knox and Stimson to serve.

There are other reasons why the call to service of Mr. Hull would appeal to the country. He has the respect of the many Democrats of the conservative school who are voting against a third term and it is inevitable that an election which is won by the aid of so many Democrats would mean the presence in a Republican president's cabinet of at least one Democrat.

Steered American Ship

Some headway has been made in this campaign by the New Dealers with their contention that Mr. Roosevelt has to be retained in power because of foreign policy when the truth is Cordell Hull is the man who knows most about foreign policy and has steered the American ship of state these last several years. In fact, if Mr. Roosevelt had not prevented the nomination of Cordell Hull at Chicago, the ticket would have been Hull and Farley. It is well known that the Tennessee would have been delighted to have the former postmaster general as his running mate. The story published by Ernest Lindley last March that Mr. Roosevelt didn't want Farley on the ticket because he was a Catholic got widespread attention because it took so long before the president denied it, but looking back now some observers are inclined to believe Mr. Roosevelt really checkmated Farley's vice presidential ambitions because two men could not be on the national ticket from the same state, and, of course, Mr. Roosevelt wanted a third nomination for himself.

Retention of Mr. Hull as secretary of state would tell all the world, including the dictators that they had not gained a thing by the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt. Whatever rejoicing they might do would be completely submerged by Mr. Willkie's announcement of his intention to retain Mr. Hull.

There would be changes, of course, among the ambassadors and ministers, and, as Mr. Willkie says, he would keep the "playboys" at home, but the career men who are non-political would stay on in the state department, and thus American foreign policy would be maintained along the same fundamental lines as in the past.

Transfer of Power

It is probable also that Mr. Willkie, if elected, would go at once to Washington the week of his election. He would get in touch with key officials and begin to pick up the threads of public business. All through November, December and up to January 20, the transfer of power from one administration to the other can be accomplished informally on a patriotic basis. And even after inauguration day it is likely that any information in the minds of officials who got their knowledge while being paid by the taxpayers' money will be gladly given to the new administration.

It will be recalled that Republican officials of the Hoover administration stayed on in 1933 and helped the New Deal regime with the details of the banking situation in fact the plan for which Mr. Roosevelt received such widespread acclaim was worked out by the Republican officials though they never got any credit for it from the new chief executive.

Mr. Willkie will certainly seek Mr. Roosevelt's cooperation in the event of a victory next month. He is a person who can quickly put aside the politics of the campaign and sit down cooperatively with his rival. The country need have no concern about Mr. Willkie's behavior in a transition period. He will not wait around for inauguration day in January, but will get right to work in Washington if he is successful on Nov. 5.

The delicate details of foreign policy will remain in the department of state under the leadership of Mr. Hull, who is really at heart no New Dealer at all, but exactly the same kind of Democrat that Wendell Willkie was when both voted for that famous Democratic platform of 1932, which was later repudiated by Mr. Roosevelt, and of which Mr. Willkie spoke so dramatically in Chicago. This was perhaps his most effective campaign speech, for it certainly struck a responsive note of enthusiasm in the middle west.

The Tennessee river flows south through Tennessee into Alabama, then reverses itself to flow northward through Tennessee again and Kentucky.

MUSKIES EASY FOR PULS—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Puls, Seymour, are shown with a total of 36 pounds of muskellunge, caught near Manitowish in the Flambeau flowage. The fish held by Mr. Puls, is 42 inches long and weighed 20 pounds and the fish held by Mrs. Puls is 37 inches long and weighed 16 pounds. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Johnson Thinks Clare Boothe Has Keen Grasp of Situation

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

New York—I think there is a new voice among political commentators in our country. It has not been silent in other fields. Clare Boothe has made herself felt importantly in drama, literature and as a publicist. Only in her indignation about the war hysteria of recent political outbursts has she taken to the hustings. She hasn't just taken to them. She has taken them.

Her book, "Europe in Spring," is the most revealing on the fall of France. It wasn't political. It was poignant, but the terrible experiences from which it was derived didn't suggest to the poised Miss Boothe that she drag her own country unnecessarily into that bloody shambles. When she got back to this country, to find that another foremost American woman writer of great heart and mind, Miss Dorothy Thompson, had completely blown up emotionally and, after castigating Mr. Roosevelt for seven years came out for him as a great leader into war, Miss Boothe began analyzing that psychology.

She showed from her correspondence in France that the blood-thirsty, breast-bating boadicea, Miss Thompson, had actually wangled permission from a French artillery battery to fire three shells at the Germans. Miss Boothe was indignant. By all the laws of war, Miss Thompson was a non-belligerent, an American, a sniper not in uniform—perfectly protected against reprisal. If anyone was killed, it was murder, no less—such a deed as the intellectual Dorothy would never dream of in her normal mind.

That roused Miss Boothe to make one of the most effective speeches yet delivered on our war hysteria. With no personal feeling whatever, she used this incident as an example of the mass madness into which we are being whipped. I can only quote a very small compressed fraction.

"Gradually she (Miss Thompson) became a victim of that emotional disease called 'acute fear.'"

"Fear is Emotional, Not Intelligent Reaction"

"Fear, a doctor will tell you, is an emotional and not an intellectual reaction. Fear distills adrenalin into the blood. The victim sweats, her breath comes fast, her nostrils dilate, her pulse races, her breasts heave. She begins to babble. The blood leaves her head and—her brain ceases to function normally."

"So, as events became more calamitous abroad, one saw Miss Thompson slip further into the icy grip of panic fear. Any good psychologist could have predicted that when she reached the final stages of hysteria she must come out for Roosevelt."

"Now here is a strange thing we all have observed: how many, many voters for Roosevelt are victims of this fear. We see everywhere people who are afraid they may be taken off relief, people who are afraid they will be put on relief, people who are afraid freely to cast a vote because they or their relatives will be hounded by a political boss out of a job, people who are afraid for racial reasons, people who are afraid we won't get into the war in time, people who are afraid (like the French and the English were until after the invasion) to swap horses in midstream, people who are afraid Hitler will be less afraid of Willkie than he is of Roosevelt (it's difficult, by the way, to imagine how Hitler could be), and people who are afraid 'that democracy is finished anyway'—so let's start going socialist now! It was this fear 'that democracy is finished anyway' which sapped the will of the French people and hastened their surrender."

Now the Democratic party may or may not be the party of war. But it certainly is the party of fear. What unites us, Independents, Republicans and Democrats, is that we are the party of courage. We are a true American breed. Our founders and forefathers and our immigrant parents felt equal to the problems of the past and solved them with courage. We citizens, new and old, also feel equal to the problems of the present. We also have the courage to solve them, because we have the faith Americans have always had in America's future."

After a devastating application of this idea, she climaxed by recalling: "Mr. Roosevelt on taking office in 1933 is quoted as having said, 'I shall either be America's greatest president—or its last.' Perhaps he should have said, 'Its greatest and its last.'"

Willkie Would Win if Europe Wasn't at War

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

If there were no war in Europe today, which candidate would you vote for?

WILLKIE 53%
ROOSEVELT 47%

This study indicates that Wendell Willkie would be running ahead of President Roosevelt in popular votes if there were no war, and would be leading in all sections except the solid south, with a consequent defeat of the President in the electoral college. The conclusion seems inescapable that, if Roosevelt wins, it will be because of the conflict abroad and not from any blanket public endorsement of the New Deal per se.

To try to measure the effect of the war, the Institute asked a nationwide cross-section of voters two questions. The first was how they were actually planning to vote today. The second asked how they would vote if there were no war in Europe.

The answers to the first question, as reported last week, showed a substantial majority for Roosevelt. The answers to the second indicate that Roosevelt would be at least eight percentage points weaker in popular votes if there were no war.

A comparison follows:

HOW CANDIDATES ACTUALLY STAND TODAY
(Oct. 18 Poll)

Roosevelt 55%
Willkie 45%

HOW CANDIDATES WOULD STAND IF THERE WERE NO WAR

"If there were no war in Europe today, which Presidential candidate would you vote for, Roosevelt or Willkie?"

Willkie 53%
Roosevelt 47%

The undecided vote on the above question was 8 per cent, as compared to 9 per cent on the other question.

Judge Heinemann Will Hear 15 Probate Cases

Judge Fred V. Heinemann will hear 15 probate cases at a special term of county court Tuesday. Scheduled cases include hearings on administration in the estates of Henry and Anna Van Denzen and Albert Williamson, hearings on the will of Loomis Skenandore and Jacob Klonz, hearings on claims in the estates of Mrs. Minnie Verkuijlen, John McKeever, August Winter, Ottilie Hoerning and John Hoerning and hearing on final account in the estates of Peter T. Scherrer, John Beringer, Samuel

Clapper Finds Admirers of Roosevelt are Losing Faith

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Minneapolis—The more I travel around the more I find people uneasy about Roosevelt. Of course millions will vote for him. Of course millions think he is their friend and that Willkie merely represents those who want to kick Roosevelt out. Of course labor is going heavily for Roosevelt. Maybe Roosevelt has the edge in this election.

Clapper

Soon after I began this trip I saw and noted that a good deal of this was missing. During several days since, that impression has been strengthened. I have found it among some people in the middle west who have always been good weathermen to me. In 1936 Roosevelt was the great man. Kansas even rejected its own favorite son and gave the state to Roosevelt. This time Democratic leaders are afraid Kansas is lost. One of them forecasts a Willkie majority of 30,000 or more. Some of the Republicans put it nearer 50,000. Democrats are frantically calling for help. In personal conversation persons who four years ago defended Roosevelt vehemently now say they don't care much who wins. They'll vote for Roosevelt but they won't feel very badly if Willkie is elected.

Everywhere through the middle west the farmers are shifting over, continuing the trend of 1938 which swept Republicans back into power in many middle-western states. Roosevelt still has labor but the farm vote is not in the bag now. The small towns, extremely conservative by nature, add their weight against Roosevelt. City labor is his big source of strength.

Disturbed Inwardly
About Third Term Move

And what is it that is at work? Perhaps several things. But the most significant is a loss of faith in Roosevelt that has taken the fire out of his own people. They have reservations, aloofness, doubts in their own minds. Some of them have asked me whether I think Roosevelt is planning to take the country into war. They groan inwardly over the Elliott Roosevelt affair. They are disturbed inwardly about the third term and the grasp for power. Such indications coming from business men who are always against Roosevelt would be taken for granted and as of little significance. But when they come from people who have supported Roosevelt and who now for the most part will vote for him again, then it begins to look as if something is happening.

How much it will affect the election I don't know, and most of my colleagues are similarly uncertain. The significance is in the fact that there has been a wide loss of faith in Roosevelt. There is question whether he is not after all interested in holding power and in expanding it. There is mistrust of the man. His policies have not turned people against him. I don't think there is any great feeling on behalf of Willkie. I hear more talk about Irvin Cobb's humorous speeches than about Willkie's speeches.

It isn't a pro-Willkie movement that is gaining force but a growing mistrust of Roosevelt that is cutting deep. There seems to be little demand for material changes in his policies. The whole thing is turning on doubts about Roosevelt, apprehensions as to what he may do, fear of what his vindictiveness may lead him into if he wins again. This fear is the dominant political emotion in the country today, I believe, shared by those who support him as well as by those who oppose him. It is tragic that this should come to pass. For if ever we needed confidence in a leader it is now. But if Roosevelt wins, it is likely that the people who voted him in will watch and wonder, disturbed lest he go out of bounds as he has in his third-term candidacy.

Farm Committee Will Map Program for Year

The year's program for the county agricultural agent and home demonstration agent will be discussed at a meeting of the county agricultural committee at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the courthouse. A number of county residents have been invited to the meeting to make suggestions and recommendations concerning the program.

Ikey Beyer to Get Blanket

Former Viking Star, Coach to be Honored At Homecoming Game

Charles "Ikey" Beyer, veteran athletic director of Rockford High school, will be awarded an "I" blanket, top athletic honor, at his alma mater, Lawrence college, between halves of the Lawrence-Coe homecoming football game at Whiting field Saturday afternoon. Beyer, who won 13 letters, counting those while attending Lawrence academy, and was graduated from Lawrence in 1912. Following the war he returned to be athletic director and coach from 1918 to 1920.

He won five letters in football, five in track, and three in basketball. He was a halfback on the gridiron and a weight man in track where he still holds the state hammer throw record. The stadium in Rockford is named for him.

The presentation of the blanket bearing his name will be made by Thomas N. Barrows, president of the college.

Gets Choice Seats for Opening Baseball Tilt

Pittsburgh — (U) — Albert G. Ploch of Elliott Borough, loyal Pirates' fan, wanted to be sure of front row seats for the opening baseball game here next April. He has ordered eight duets.

Report National Pro League Still Seeking Ward as Prexy

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

New York — (U) — New fangled stuff: Golfer Jug McSpaden has been given what amounts to a life time contract by Boston's swank Winchester club. . . . Ted Thye, west coast wrestling impresario, just back from Australia, says if it wasn't for uniformed men on the streets, you wouldn't know a war was on. . . . With Carnegie Tech on the football skids, next year probably will see the end of its series with Notre Dame. . . .

Rumor Foundry
They are whispering around that Francis X. Reagan, Penn football ace, already has signed (for $7,500) to catch somewhere in the Yankee farm system. . . . And that the National Professional Football league again is shaking the presidency under the nose of Arch Ward, Chicago sports editor. . . . Ward turned down 25,000 smackers last year. . . . What a guy!

Pirate Outfielder Is 'Fine' After Operation

St. Louis — (U) — Maurice Van Robays, Pittsburgh Pirates' outfielder, was reported in "fine" condition after an operation here yesterday. The operation was performed to correct an abdominal and back disorder which troubled the player most of last season.

Today's Guest Star

Edward T. Murphy, New York Sun: "Speaking of numbers, Oscar Vitt's will be drawn next Monday in Cleveland by Alva Bradley, owner of the Indians. . . . Vitt's number will be the only one in the hat, so Bradley can't miss."

J. M. Sanderson, who has coached football at Morningside college for 29 consecutive years, must take a back seat. . . . Harry Hughes has been on the job at Colorado State for 30 years and never felt better in his life.

Texas Has a Whale of a Team But Gets Little Recognition

Lawrence Frosh, St. Norbert to Clash Tomorrow

Vikings Considered One of Best Squads; Linemen Outstanding

Lawrence college's freshman football team will receive its baptism under fire Friday afternoon when it meets the St. Norbert college frosh team at Whiting field in the opening event on the Lawrence college Homecoming program.

Lawrence will give Midwest conference teams plenty of trouble in the next few years if the freshman crop "pans out." The team is loaded with dynamite with most of the lads hailing from the Milwaukee-Racine-Wauwatosa territory.

George Lucht, 172 pound quarterback from Washington High of Milwaukee, is stamped as one of the best blocking backs ever seen in action on the Lawrence campus.

Al Zupek, a halfback from Racine, won all-Big Eight conference honors last season, and rates as a better-than-average passer on the Appleton campus. Dave Wakefield, of Wauwatosa, and Paul Maertzweiler, Milwaukee, are good ends. Wakefield won all-Suburban conference honors last season, while Maertzweiler is a brother of Joe Maertzweiler, who several years back captained the Vikings.

The problem of the shortage of centers should be solved next season with the moving up of Roger Nelson, regular pivot man on Racine Park. Big Eight conference championship team of last year, and Joe Greco, an outstanding center at Milwaukee Lincoln.

Make Changes In Fight Card

American Legion To Present Bouts At Armory Tonight

THE CARD
Glen Potter, Bloomington, Ill., versus Jimmy Coyne, Fond du Lac, five rounds at 160 pounds.
Joe D'Amico, Milwaukee, versus Marty Pientkewicz, Vulcan, Mich., five rounds at 135 pounds.
Al McPherson, Kenosha, versus Harry Tessorf, West Allis, three rounds at 147 pounds.
Jerry Gutman, Fond du Lac, versus George Steffen, Green Bay, three rounds at 147 pounds.
Dick Haterkorn, Vulcan, Mich., versus Bud Hintz, Clintonville, three rounds at 165 pounds.
Dick Piette, Appleton, versus Roney Lawrence, Manitowish, three rounds at 156 pounds.
Max Seggelink, Appleton, versus Len Luck, Hurley, three rounds at 165 pounds.

Three last-minute changes have been made in the card to be presented by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion at Armory D this evening but promoters feel they have an even stronger lineup as a result.

Gene LeClerc of Detroit, Mich., was to appear in one of the double windup bouts but he was called back to Detroit yesterday for a new job. Joe D'Amico, flashy Milwaukee 133-pounder, has been secured to fill his shoes and will tangle with Marty Pientkewicz of Vulcan, Mich., new to these parts. D'Amico has won 14 straight bouts and will be out for No. 15 tonight.

Jerry Gutman of Fond du Lac will have George Steffen of Green Bay as his opponent rather than Mack Kusick of Haskell Institute who joined the navy and had to leave for duty immediately. Steffen looked good in beating Thorpe last spring and in Golden Gloves competition.

George Haefman of Clintonville

BY FELIX E. MCKNIGHT

Dallas — (U) — Ignored, almost considered a flag stop on schedules while Dana Bible patiently labored on his rehabilitation program, the University of Texas now has a whale of a football team—and can't get a tumble from anybody.

Fans and critics are too prone to identify the University of Texas as the base of operations for Cowboy Jack Crain and let it go at that.

Texas is undefeated, has a terrific, well-rounded attack and leads the Southwest conference in total yards gained by land and air. Its reserves are unlimited.

Four state universities—Colorado, defending Big Seven champs; Indiana, Big Ten contender; Oklahoma and Arkansas—have been shellied on successive weekends by this glittering group of kids.

Jack Crain is a furious runner, a great runner, but he is far from being the only threat the Longhorns own. In the Arkansas game Crain went to the sidelines with hurts, but fullback Pete Layden, R. L. Harkins, R. E. Patrick, Walter Heap, Ralph Park, Noble Doss, Johnny Gill—oh, you never heard of these boys?—kept right on rolling.

They've waited five years for Dana Bible's promised 1940 team. It's here, and very noisy. It's the team that probably will play Texas A. and M., the publicized power, before 45,000 on Thanksgiving day for the business.

And still it can't get a tumble.

Gophers are Getting Even

Avenging Four Losses Suffered Last Year By Serious Mistakes

Minneapolis — (U) — Four little mistakes cost Minnesota four big ball games last season.

Now the Golden Gophers are getting back those ball games and they have already caught up with two clubs profiting from the 1939 miscues.

Nebraska fooled Bernie Bierman's boys last fall with a simple old fashioned reverse that got a fourth down score after everything else had failed. The final count was 6 to 0. Minnesota got the winning 13 to 7 margin this year on a one play forward pass from Bruce Smith to Co-captain Bill Johnson.

Ohio State won 23 to 20 last year because a Minnesota player was caught holding. That mistake came on a play that would have given the Gophers a first down on the Buckeye three yard line.

Set back fifteen yards, Minnesota gambled on a field goal bid for a tie and lost. At Columbus last Saturday, Minnesota evened the score because touchdown plays worked for Bruce Smith.

Coming up for important notice this Saturday is another one of the beneficiaries of the 1939 Minnesota errors. The team is Iowa.

The Hawkeyes beat Minnesota last year because a player in the Gopher's secondary permitted Bill Green to get behind him to catch Nile Kinlick's touchdown pass.

Bierman's 1940 squad this time would settle for a one play winner. It wouldn't mind dusting off the winner that set back Washington in this year's opener—that 98 yard dash by halfback George Franck.

Still there will be Northwestern, the last of the 1939 one-play benefit brigade. Bill de Correvont got away from the Minnesota safety man to count the winner. And the mighty man will be around when the rampaging Gophers try to balance up with the Wildcats Nov. 2.

broke the little finger of his left hand and has been replaced by Len Luck of Hurley, another newcomer, to battle Max Seggelink of Appleton in the opener. The first bout will go on at 8:30.

Brumbaugh and Billy Patterson Steelers Stars

Latter, a Former Baylor Back, Good For an Entire Game

Green Bay — The Packers are expecting the toughest kind of a battle Sunday afternoon when they meet the Pittsburgh Steelers in a National Football league game at State Fair park, Milwaukee. The kickoff is at 2 p. m.

The pro gridders from the Smoky City are tough defensive customers and at times have showed flashes of offensive prowess. Coach Walter Kiesling has been forced to juggle his battle front in the last three games on account of a topheavy casualty list but he hopes to have nearly all his stars back in action against the national champions.

Pair of Stellar Backs

In Boyd Brumbaugh and Merlyn Condit, the Pittsburghers are blessed with two of the topnotch backfielders in the Pro circuit. Both the aces are "home town" products. Brumbaugh played three years of varsity ball at Duquesne university while Condit starred at Carnegie Tech from 1937 through '39. This same Condit was "tops" in the All Star game at New York and his remarkable ball carrying played a lead role in the defeat of the Giants.

Billy Patterson, a 170-pound pepper box from Baylor, is the spark-plug of the Steelers' backfield. Like a number of these southerners who bob up in the National wheel, Patterson is a first class forward passer. Billy is playing his second season of post-graduate ball. Last year he was on the Bears' squad but saw very little action. The Baylor product would rather play football than eat so he welcomed the trade that brought him to Pittsburgh. Patterson now is sure of seeing plenty of action. In several games he has earned "60 minute" stripes.

Sorter Assistant Coach

In Wilbur Sorter and George Plutkus, the Steelers have a couple of head crashing ends who generally cause the opposition plenty of trouble. This is the third year for Plutkus with Pittsburgh while Sorter, who doubles as assistant coach, has drawn his pay from Owner Art Rooney for six years in a row.

One of the outstanding backfield newcomers is Johnny Noppenberg from Miami university. He is at home in any position behind the line and also has turned in several good games at end. Noppenberg's home town is Menominee, Mich., and quite a delegation of his friends are planning to make the trip to Milwaukee and whoop things up for Johnny and his teammates.

Injury Jinx Again Hits Badger Squad

Madison — (U) — The injury jinx, which has plagued the University of Wisconsin football squad all season, turned up again today as Al Lorenz, senior end, and George Paskvan, senior fullback, reported with ailments which may seriously affect their efficiency in the Purdue game at LaFayette, Ind., Saturday.

The men, both regulars, have injured ankles and did not participate in any heavy work at yesterday's practice.

Dick Embick, senior guard, who was injured in the Iowa game, still favors his knee and will not be able to perform with his usual vigor.

The first and second teams polished up their offense after viewing Purdue plays for a short time. The third team scrimmaged. A light limbering up drill was scheduled for today.

The Badgers will leave early tomorrow for Indianapolis where they will hold a light practice on the Butler University gridiron. The trip to LaFayette will be resumed Saturday morning.

SWEDIE JOHNSTON WITH STEELERS—When the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Green Bay Packers clash Sunday in Milwaukee, an Appleton griddier and a former Packer will be in the Steeler lineup. He is Chester "Swede" Johnston who has been doing great work despite the fact he tangled with a linesman's stick and came up with a badly cut mouth.

Pepper Martin Will Find Many Old Friends Out on the Coast

BY ROBERT MYERS

Los Angeles — (U) — John L. (Pepper) Martin, late of the St. Louis Cardinals, should feel right at home when he takes up quarters in the Pacific Coast league next spring.

For the great Pepper, once the ringtailed leader of the noisiest, wildest collection of ball players Frankie Frisch will ever have to suffer with, will find no less than six of his old cronies of the once celebrated Gas House Gang scattered along the shores of the Pacific.

Reading from left to right, and upside down and backwards, which was the way the boys used to turn things, the newly named skipper of Sacramento will find:

Ripper Collins and big Bob Weiland with Los Angeles. Brucie Ogdowski catching for Sacramento. "Beau Brummel Bill" Walker pitching for Seattle. Jack Rothrock at Hollywood and young Ray Harrell with Portland.

Most of these distinguished gentlemen, or gents, played with Pepper back in 1934-35 and thereafter. Those were the years the original Gas House Gang really flourished, when a clubhouse battle was a minor incident, when off the field didoes kept the nation laughing and Branch Rickey smoking, when constant turmoil was the normal state.

Those were the years, too, when the Dean boys pitched the Cards to glory and a world's championship, when Pepper had his Mudcat band and went in for midget auto racing and prize fighters—and poor Frisco got grayer and grayer.

The present has overlapped the past, however, and now some of the old gas house guard have reached the stepping off, or twilight, stage, of their careers. There is a possibility that winter trade winds may blow them elsewhere before the days of spring and Pepper arrive in California. But here is a fervent wish that there are enough left to start a mild commotion in this league when the old wild horse gets here.

St. Norbert Drills For Milwaukee Tilt

De Pere — (U) — Coach Mickey McCormick of the St. Norbert football team, satisfied that his squad is potent enough on offense, stressed defensive formations in scrimmage this week in preparation for the Knights' battle with Milwaukee Teachers at Milwaukee Saturday.

The Knights have scored 13 touchdowns in four games, winning three and losing one, while holding opponents to four touchdowns.

The squad came through the Carroll game in good shape. Al Borremans, a guard, suffered a shoulder injury, but is expected to be in condition to play.

INVADERS WAUPACA SATURDAY—Kimberly High school will attempt to stay undefeated in Tri-County conference play Saturday afternoon when it invades Waupaca. The Papermakers will be heavy favorites because of their showing to date while Waupaca, playing its first season of ball in 19 years, still has to taste victory. However, the game will feature Waupaca's homecoming and the Spudders may rise to the heights.

Zuppke Calls On Wrestler to Halt Ramblers

Makes Changes in Line; De Correvont May Play Saturday

Chicago—(AP)—Bob Zuppke, Illinois grid coach, figures that "holding that line" is the answer to his team's chances against undefeated Notre Dame Saturday.

He may even have a means to that end—a heavyweight wrestler Zuppke hopes his wrestler-lineman will show a few "holds" that will stop Milt Pepul and the Irish in the Illinois homecoming game.

The grappler whom Zuppke called on yesterday in an effort to strengthen the Illinois line is John Sikich, 215 pound junior. He took over at right tackle, quite a promotion in itself since Capt. Tom Riggs has been occupying that station regularly for the last two years.

The change followed a shift Tuesday that brought Cliff Peterson from second string fullback to first string left half. Peterson celebrated yesterday by punning for one touchdown and passing for another in a brief scrimmage against the reserves. A third touchdown came on a 15 yard run by George Bernhardt. Ralph Ehm's kicks accounted for the extra points.

The Illinois also looked impressive in breaking up Notre Dame plays demonstrated by the freshmen.

Notre Dame, although labeled one of the greatest teams in the schools' 52 year old football history, was content yesterday to drill on fundamentals. "We need the work," commented Coach Elmer Layden.

Wolves Work on Aerials

The game is one of the three major engagements this week involving Western conference teams. Ohio State, which plays Cornell in another continued to stress defensive measures. However, Michigan, which takes on Pennsylvania, began dressing up its aerial offense, used only sparingly thus far.

Indiana, with Hal Hursh handling most of the throwing, also had a long passing practice. The Hoosiers will meet Northwestern whose expectations of a third straight conference victory were strengthened by the report that Bill De Correvont might get into the game. He sprained an ankle in the Wisconsin game.

Bob Bender, sophomore back, gave new hope to Iowa's shaky passing department by completing pass after pass in a scrimmage preparatory for the Minnesota clash. The Gophers held an aerial workout of their own and also devoted considerable time to defense.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher ruled out heavy contact work for Wisconsin's first stringers because of the risk of injuries to an already crippled eleven which faces Purdue Saturday. The Boilermakers also hit by injuries were cheered by the return of Capt. Dave Rankin, outstanding end, and the passing and running demonstration of John Galt, who becomes the key back in the absence of injured Mike Bjelke.

Glamor From the Range Gives the Rodeo New Kick

New York—(AP)—Shine those boots, cowboy, and slick that hair down. Your rodeo's gone glamorous.

It's still the rootin', tootin', hard-ridin' affair that has captured New Yorkers' fancy for years but this 15th annual national championship event has a little something extra.

Six of the purest gals, podnah, that ever rode the range (or strutted hand-in-hand with a tuxedoed Joe College at a junior prom) supply the glamor angle this fall.

The show has always had girls—some pretty ones too. They rode broncs though, and there's not much romantic kick in watching a girl take one of those tooth-rattling neck-snapping jaunts on a hurricane deck.

First Try Last Year

Last year rodeo officials brought up a group of Texas ranchers' pretty daughters for an exhibition of riding skill. The feature went well.

This year they chose a six-girl outfit after competition in a dozen western states. Riding ability, looks, personality and general oomph figured in the choice.

The girls take turns at riding in a herd of Texas longhorn steers, picking one out and cutting him out of the herd. It takes horsemanship to keep that steer from cutting back into the herd. And it can be dangerous.

Virginia Gordon Hughes, Southern California's representative explains.

"A tumble from your horse would put you at the mercy of those longhorns. They're mean and the sharp turns you must take make it easy to be unseated."

She's Typical

Miss Hughes is 18 and the daughter of a former California state senator, is prettily typical of the pretty group. Fresh-faced, blue-eyed and sparkling with the thrill of her first visit to New York she chirped out her idea of fun in the city.

"Window shopping! Oh those marvelous clothes!"

The girls aren't really cowgirls. They're daughters of ranch-owners though and have had plenty of ranch experience. They're 18 and 19 years old come from Texas, Oregon, California, Arizona and New Mexico.

And while the professional cowboys and cowgirls provide the bronc-busting thrills—and get their reward in prize money—the amateur youngsters furnish the glamor and take their reward in big city thrills.

Sees Movies on Request

Milwaukee—When Dick Brye, fiery Marquette university football tackle, attends squad meetings at which motion pictures of past Hill-top games are shown, he does so with his fingers crossed. Brye doesn't like movies and vows he'll never go to the cinema, but makes an exception when Coach Paddy Driscoll calls.

Three Tied in Lox Mill Loop

Giants, Lions and Packers Share First After Week's Efforts

Lox Mill League

Lions	10	8	184
Packers	10	8	184
Bears	9	9	161

Little Chute—Three teams are tied for the top in the Lox Bowling league. The Giants, last week's leaders, were upset in two games by the Packers and the Lions won the odd game from the Bears.

High series honors went to N. Manley with a big 634 triple and a 275 singleton. Cecil Peeters was second with a 588 total and a 231 singleton.

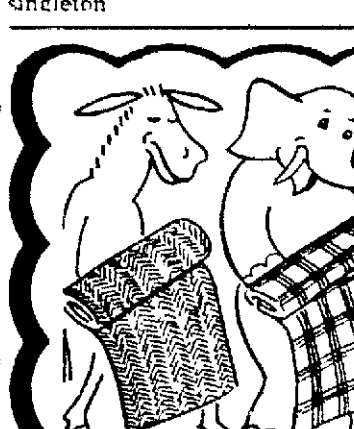

Rams crashed a 2,629 series for team honors while the Redskins rattled a 943 game score.

Lions won two games from the Bears paced by Lee Lambie with a 564 series and Mart Opstein showed a 208 singleton followed by Bill Erickson with a 207 H. Henning paced the losers with a 532 total and a 206 game.

Joe Masaros led the Packers in a two game win over the Giants with a 508 series. Hank Jansen showed high game of 188. Charles Ehlike held up the losers with a 538 triple and a 200 game.

Rams scored the odd game win over the Eagles led by N. Manley with a 275 game and a 634 triple. He also had a 214 game. R. Kinder helped out with a 215 game. Jack Strick topped the losers with a 537 total and Basil Mulry showed a 198 game.

Cardinals scored two wins over the Redskins. Cecil Peeters led the losers with a 588 triple and a 231 singleton.

Jay Gridders Face Phantoms In League Tilt

Menasha High Team Will Play at DePere On Friday Afternoon

Menasha—Menasha High school gridders will travel to DePere Friday afternoon to oppose the West High school team on their last road trip of the season. The Bluejays will wind up their 1940 football season with two home games following the tilt with the Black Phantoms.

Because of the conflict in use of the stadium at DePere, the contest Friday afternoon will start at 2:30 and the Menasha players will leave by bus for DePere Friday morning. Although the Bluejays did not have a game last week, they will not be in top condition for the game Friday afternoon.

Some of the gridders have been ill while others have been injured in violent scrimmages sessions in which the Bluejays were blocking and tackling as hard as in a game. Robert Wideman, sophomore fullback, has been ill and missed several practices this week but probably will be ready to play Friday.

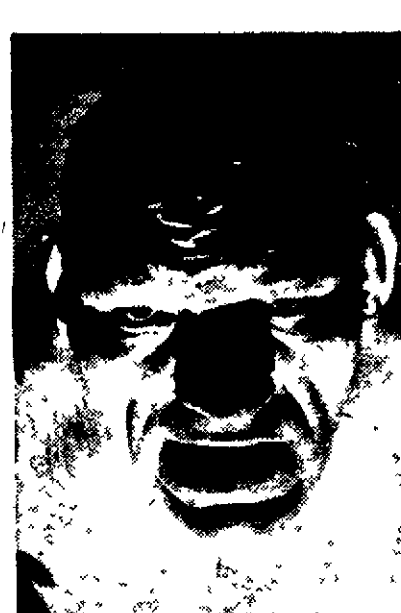

O'Brien Also Hurt

William Robinson, senior quarterback, has a wrenched shoulder and watched the practice Wednesday from the sidelines. Don Drucks, reserve left halfback, has a leg injury and was not in uniform. Roland O'Brien, regular left half, also has a leg injury while Edward Humski, end, also is out.

The Bluejay backfield probably will have Robinson at quarterback with Gus Block in reserve. John Baldaut at left half, Robert Nantke at right half, and Robert Wideman at fullback. Ambrose Naleway has been showing improvement at reserve fullback post and has picked up in his blocking.

The line is in fairly good shape. Probable starters will be Donald Jensen and John Sheleski at ends, Gene Resen and Elmer Martell at tackles, and James DeLong and Harold Funk, the co-captains, at guards.

Both Menasha and West lost to Kaukauna by 25 to 0 scores. Shawano defeated West 30 to 6 and Menasha 19 to 0. West edged Clintonville 14 to 13 while Menasha trounced the Trunkers 19 to 0. West also defeated New London 9 to 6 to take fourth place in the league standings with two victories and two defeats. The Bluejays are one notch behind with one victory against two defeats.

NO BAD DREAM—It's Maurice Tillet called "The Angel" who wrestles former world's heavyweight champion, Gus Sonnenberg at the Columbus auditorium, Green Bay, Friday night Oct. 25th.

The contestants have agreed to wrestle two best in three falls to a finish. "The Angel" recently received nation-wide publicity in several magazines because of his close resemblance to the prehistoric, "Neanthertal" type of man. He is 5 feet, 7 1/2 inches tall and weighs 276 pounds. Scientists who have examined him state he is the most unusual man they have ever encountered. He is undefeated in professional wrestling.

M.U. Mentors Seek Capable Reserves

Milwaukee—(AP)—Marquette's football coaches continued to work hard with the reserves in practice today in hopes of finding capable replacements for first stringers before the game with undefeated Texas Tech here Saturday.

In four games this year the Marquette regulars have shown plenty of scoring punch, running up 87 points, but they have lacked the stamina to play 60 minutes of football and have been unable to halt late drives of all their opponents.

Johnny Goodyear, regular right halfback, is still limping with an injured foot and may not see much action Saturday. Coach Paddy Driscoll has been using Fred Rice at the post.

Parents' day will be observed at the stadium with fathers and mothers of Golden Avalanche players among those in the stands.

Cornell, Penn Dominate the Grid Figures

Former Rates as Passingest Team; Latter Best Rusher

BY GAIL FOWLER

Seattle—(AP)—Those Giants of the east—Cornell and Pennsylvania—dominate this week's batch of statistics as compiled by the American Football Statistical Bureau, and the welter of figures also indicates some interesting conclusions.

For the second straight week Cornell is tops in total offense—gains both rushing and passing—with a 466.7 yard average per game. The Ithacans gained 584 yards on the ground and 816 in the air for 1,400 yards in three games.

For the third straight week Cornell was the nation's "passingest" team, averaging 22 yards via the air lanes.

Penn meanwhile boomed into second place in total offense with a 400-yard per game average and, the statistics say in the country's best rushing outfit with a 303.7 average per game.

Also, Penn for the second straight week boasted the best defense against rushing. Its opposition, while not too robust, grossed 147 yards against the unquaking Quaker forwards and lost 121 yards for the microscope net yield of 28 yards.

Penn's Saturday adversary, Michigan, which has been playing tough-er teams, is ninth in total offense, but fifth in rushing alone, what with Harmon, Westfall and Evashevski, so Saturday's tilt should pit a strong running outfit against a line which held Maryland, Yale and Princeton ball packers to that tiny 8.7 per game average.

Cornell's Saturday foe, Ohio State, the 1939 total offense leader's also has been playing tougher clubs and doesn't figure among the offensive leaders. But the Ohio Staters rank fifth in pass defense, holding the enemy aerials to an average of only 34.8 per game.

This means the nation's best passing club will run up against a team with a stout anti-aircraft department, so all four—Cornell, Ohio State, Penn and Michigan, will get an opportunity to try out their best poison against high grade antidotes.

Like Sheephead

Milwaukee—Where else, but in Milwaukee, will you find a football squad that has schafskopf as its favorite card game? Otherwise known as sheephead, it is most popular among Marquette university gridmen with bridge and poker also running strong in the Hill-toppers' free hours.

NEW 12-ROOM HOME AT NEW LONDON—Most pretentious home in New London is the recently occupied 12-room Georgian home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Werner at 804 Dickinson street just east of Washington High school. Built of Hamilton stone, the home has two full floors, a full basement, and integral 2-car garage. There are five bedrooms and three tiled bathrooms upstairs. On the first floor are living room, library, dining room, powder and cloak room, combined pantry and breakfast nook, and kitchen. Above the 2-car garage is a special large-sized children's room finished in natural knotty pine throughout. There are three fireplaces, in the living room, library and basement. The basement provides a large recreation room, workshop, laundry room and several store rooms. Heating is by automatic oil furnace, thermostatically controlled on each floor. The west and south wings of the house open on the northeast side onto a screened ground-level terrace. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Story of 1-Man Rebellion Among New Books at Library

New London—Among the new books at the New London Public Library this week is "The Happy Highway," by Frances Brett Young, who tells the story of Owen Lueton, head of a large accounting firm, for whom life began at fifty when he rebelled against his ungrateful family, bought the high-powered car he had always wanted, and hit the

Heil Party in County Swing

Candidates on G.O.P. Ticket Give Talks At New London Park

New London—Governor Heil's election campaign party spent a half hour in this city at Taft park at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in a swing through Waupaca county. While the governor, Republican candidate for reelection, did not speak, his associate office holders spoke in behalf of his administration. John Smith, treasurer seeking reelection, talked briefly on the work of his office, denouncing charges of opposing parties and pointing out that during his term he collected a million dollars more in liquor taxes than his predecessor and with 60 per cent less expense.

Reid F. Murray, candidate for reelection as congressman from the Seventh district, scored the Progressives and particularly Senator LaFollette for their attitude toward the reciprocal trade treaties which he strongly opposes. Four years ago they were for the tariffs which hit at the Wisconsin cheese market, but even though they now claim to oppose them in their current platform, LaFollette was not interested enough to be in Washington to vote against the 1940 extension of the treaties, he charged.

Methodist Boy Scouts See Motion Pictures

New London—Boy Scouts of Troop 7 of the Methodist church were entertained by W. T. Comstock with colored motion pictures of Glacier National park at the regular meeting at the church Tuesday night. The scouts also agreed to distribute grain to pheasant feeders this winter for the New London Fish and Game club, and to distribute and post bulletins for the Red Cross chapter on Nov. 9.

21 Women Golfers Continue Play at Springvale Course

New London—Twenty-one women continued golfing at Springvale course Wednesday afternoon as ideal fall weather prevailed. Three prizes were offered, Mrs. D. N. Vanderveer winning one for low score of 47 and Mrs. J. W. Monsted and Mrs. M. S. Zahrt winning others. A hot dog lunch was held afterwards. The same procedure will be followed next week.

American Legion auxiliary will meet at the clubhouse this evening. Women's Relief corps will meet at Odd Fellow hall Friday afternoon.

Mrs. L. E. Freeman had Mrs. A. R. Margraff, Mrs. C. C. Seims and Mrs. L. M. Wright as guests when she entertained the Old Settlers club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Milo DeGroot will be hostess next Thursday.

Mrs. B. Bull and Mrs. Frank A. Jen were hostesses at the regular meeting of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters Tuesday evening at the parish hall. Mrs. L. J. Polaski, Mrs. James Bodoh and Mrs. R. E. Scanlon won prizes at cards.

Mrs. John McHugh entertained at cards Tuesday night and prizes were won by Mrs. William McNichols, Mrs. John Croak and Mrs. John Paul. Mrs. Gust Paul will be hostess in two weeks.

Entertainment Is Mapped for Farmers' Party

New London Rotary Club to Stage Annual Event at High School

New London—A program of pure entertainment has been arranged for the seventeenth annual Farmers' party sponsored by the New London Rotary club which will be held this year at Washington High school on the evening of Monday, Nov. 4, it was announced this week by Ormond W. Capener, program chairman.

About 900 invitations to farmers of the New London area will be issued the latter part of this week. About 1,100 attended the largest party last year.

Miss May M. Roach, assistant rural director at Stevens Point State Teachers college, will be the principal speaker with a talk entitled "My Own Home Town." Miss Roach is popular with rural audiences and her talk is noted for its homely philosophy and spontaneous humor.

Stage Program
Other stage entertainment will consist of a slight-of-hand performance by L. Donald Purdy, Appleton; song and dance numbers by Duane and Dalton Schoening; and novelty music by Bob Nelson's high school German band. The New London High school band will begin a concert at 7:30 and the stage program will begin as soon as the auditorium is filled. President A. L. Severance will deliver the welcome address. After the stage program there will be old-time dancing in the gymnasium to music by a New London orchestra. Circle two-steps, march waltzes and other old-time numbers will be featured.

A full motion picture program of theater talking pictures will be shown in the auditorium for those who don't care to dance. Professional Hollywood entertainment films are being secured. A light lunch will conclude the party.

The Risks of War

The true position of the United States in this very dangerous world has not been clarified, on the contrary, it has been confused and obscured, by the campaigning of the past week. For the truth is that the position in the Pacific is immediately critical whereas the chances that the young men who registered for the draft will ever be sent to fight in Europe are for all practical purposes zero.

But no one would realize this truth by listening to the silences of Mr. Roosevelt or to the speeches of Mr. Willkie. The voters are being misled by their leaders into worrying about remote and imaginary risks and into forgetting the immediate and real risks.

If all that stood between the American people and another European expeditionary force were the intentions and promises of Mr. Roosevelt or of Mr. Willkie then the people might well have cause to wonder. Campaign promises, hastily dashed up in the last desperate weeks before an election, count for nothing against the tide of events and of circumstances. What count, all that count in matters of this sort, are the facts of the situation, not the words of candidates.

And it is the facts of the situation which make it as certain as anything can be certain in this world that no American army can be raised, trained or equipped, carried across the Atlantic, landed in Europe, and set the task of invading Europe.

Army Couldn't Go To Europe Anyway
The intervention 1917 could not be repeated in this war first, because there is no place to land an army, and second, because in this war of mechanized forces it is impossible to find mechanized weapons for the millions of trained soldiers who are already in Europe. The idea of sending an American army when there are no ports where it could debark is in itself absurd. The idea of sending an army, and of trying to supply it, when there are millions of seasoned troops already there who lack arms would be the height of the absurd.

As long as Hitler holds the ports of the continent, an American army could not get to Europe. It would be useless in England because England is already crowded with troops which are not fully armed and cannot be used. If ever the time comes when Hitler has to evacuate the coast of France, opening up ports where in theory an American army might be landed, Hitler will already be on the run, and the quick and sure way to dispose of him will be to pour aims into France for Frenchmen, Belgians, Dutchmen and Britons to use. Until Hitler's hold on the continent is broken, an American army could not get to Europe; as soon as his hold is broken, no one is going to want to waste ships, supplies, and a year's time, moving an American army to Europe. Until Hitler is so badly defeated that he must leave France, the whole continent will rise against him, and no American army would be needed or could get there in time.

War With Japan Is Greater Possibility
All talk, therefore, about sending American boys to the embalmers of Europe is what Mr. Willkie called in his acceptance speech a "manufactured panic." On the other hand, there is nothing manufactured about the gravity of our relations with Japan. This, to put it bluntly, is the direction in which war must be regarded as being a genuine possibility.

There is no more possibility, of course, that American armies could be sent across the Pacific than across the Atlantic. But there is the possibility, by no means remote or negligible, of an economic, naval, and aerial war in the Pacific.

The possibility arises out of the decision to give economic assistance to China in her resistance to Japan.

This policy, which had been cautiously and hesitantly pursued until a month ago, has now become increasingly active. It is a policy which seems to have, if the Gallup poll is to be trusted, the well-nigh unanimous support of the American people. It is, of course, the policy which Mr. Willkie advocated in his San Francisco speech a month ago, and it has now become the avowed policy of the American government. The policy consists in making military supplies available to China and in cutting off military supplies to Japan. The positive aid to China consists in the opening of the Burma Road, in the granting of credits, and in the facilitating of Chinese purchases of equipment. The negative aid consists in the successive embargoes on metals and gasoline and in the reported cornering of the oil supplies of the Netherlands Indies.

There is no disguising the fact that this policy carries with it the risks of war. But there is very little doubt, also, that, once Japan had entered into the alliance with the Axis, the risks of this policy became less than the risk of standing by. Refusing to help China and continuing to supply Japan with the materials she needs to complete the conquest of the Far East. For if we helped Japan to win in the East, and that is what Japan demands of us, our one-ocean Navy would never be free to leave the Pacific Ocean. Japan would become invincible in the Pacific and free to strike when she chose, at a time when a catastrophe in Europe might require the shifting of the fleet to the Atlantic. Therefore, we have been driven to realize that the strengthening of the Chinese resistance and the weakening of the Japanese power of aggression are a necessary insurance against the possibility of an Axis victory in Europe. Having only one Navy in two oceans we need the Chinese resistance to keep Japan entangled in Asia in the event that our support of British should turn out to be insufficient to keep the Axis out of the Atlantic.

That, no doubt, is why Mr. Willkie went even further in words than the President had then gone in his acts on the policy of defending our own security by supporting China as well as Great Britain. The policy does not and cannot involve the sending of American armies to fight outside American territory or outside the Western Hemisphere. But it does certainly involve in the Far East a very serious opposition to the challenge of Japan. How serious no one can say, for that depends on Japan's estimate of her strength and of our strength, of whether she can bluff us and whether we are bluffing her. But what can be said is this. A policy of this sort is most likely to lead to war if it is followed irresolutely and faintheartedly. The course to be followed is to assist China a little, but not enough, and to resist Japan a little, but not enough, while conveying the impression that the country has not weighed the consequences and is not prepared to face them. For such a course will provoke Japan without stopping her, whereas, once the decision has been taken to oppose Japan, the only safe course is to make it perfectly clear to Japan that the country means business and is not to be bluffed or intimidated.

Rank Jape No. 1 Ping-Pong Star

Neenah Table Tennis Team to Play First Match With Waupaca

Neenah—Donald Jape has been named top ranking ping-pong player in Neenah. Paul Stacker, manager of the recreation building, reported today.

The 13 highest ranking players were named today in the following order: Jape, Jack Lemberg, Louis Robin, Glen Taff, Laverne Graham, Louis Hollinbeck, Raymond Neumeier, Vernice Wollerman, Herbert Cramer, Jack Drabheim, Eugene Johnson, Chris Lemberg and Walter Sell.

In the doubles, Graham and Robin held top ranking honors and Taff and Jape are second.

This squad, which plays Neenah's city team, will play its first match at 1:30 Sunday afternoon with Waupaca at the recreation center.

Stacker explained that ratings were obtained from the results of the recent round robin tournament conducted at the play center. These ratings, he said, will change every week, and any person in Neenah is eligible to try out for the team. To get on the team, they have to challenge the lowest ranking player and work up. The team members must accept challenges.

Ducklow Sets Pace In Neenah Circuit

Neenah — Dr. G. N. Ducklow sparked the Commercial Bowling league last night at the Neenah alleys when he slammed a 616 total on lines of 215, 189 and 212.

Max Kuchelbeck rolled second high total of 612 on games of 166, 229 and 217. G. Rogers shot a 605. A. Hennig 601, K. Kuehl 601, Arthur Doll hit high game of 234. Elmer Schultz 233.

Wickert Lumberers rolled high team game of 1,031 and high series of 2,808. Krause Clothing was second with 1,027 and 2,801.

County Buys Part of Land For Airport

Two Other Pieces Of Property to be Bought Within Week

Post-Crescent Oshkosh bureau

Oshkosh—Purchase of two of the four pieces of property comprising the airport which the Winnebago county board voted to buy has been completed, County Clerk A. E. Heckle, said today.

The lands were purchased and deeds transferred late yesterday afternoon in the office of District Attorney Louis G. Magnusen. The properties were the privately owned Oshkosh airport which was bought for $33,000 and the E. A. Knoke farm which was sold to the county for $11,000.

The district attorney said that the Archie Link farm would be bought Saturday morning and the Adolph Runke farm would be purchased the early part of next week. The abstracts of these farms now are being reviewed by his office.

Edward McKenzie, Menasha city attorney, met with Magnusen yesterday relative to a statute which provides that a two-thirds vote of the county board was needed to appropriate money from the contingent fund. An informal opinion was secured yesterday from Ward Reitor, an assistant attorney general, who stated that the two-thirds vote only applies to counties of over 300,000 population. Winnebago county has a population of 80,439.

Children are Country's Greatest Assets, Judge Tells Service Clubs

Menasha—Judge A. M. Scheller, Waupaca, told members of the Menasha Lions and Rotary clubs that boys and girls are the greatest assets of this country at a joint meeting Wednesday at Hotel Menasha. He advised the service clubs that they could do the greatest good by working with children.

The approach to the crime problem of today is wrong, the speaker declared. He said that the federal bureau looks for the 20 ranking criminals to punish them while 200,000 criminals are developing among the young people. More money is spent in paying for crime than is spent for education throughout the United States in a year, he said.

Anton Honski, 634 Fourth street, Menasha, has been admitted to The da Clark hospital for treatment.

County Garage Addition Ready For Open House

Finishing Touches are Made on Structures Launched Last June

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh—Open house for the $45,000 addition to the Winnebago county garage will be held here Saturday and Sunday, E. M. Bird, county highway superintendent, announced yesterday.

Finishing touches were added this week to the addition, the construction of which began last June. The addition is a two story building made of brick in a light buff color with a cast stone trim. It is 100 feet long and 80 feet wide. The regular garage is 80 feet wide by 260 feet long.

The addition is used mainly as a machine shop but includes a paint spraying room, a parts storage room, offices for the patrol and shop superintendents, and a sign painting room. The machine shop is two stories high and is equipped with a 5-ton and a 2-ton crane and hoist.

The county garage is located on Knapp street in the southwest corner of the city of Oshkosh. Until recently the county highway department had been using the old county garage on Wisconsin avenue in the city of Oshkosh for their machine shop but this was sold recently to an Oshkosh meat market concern.

The total cost of the addition approximates $45,000. Mr. Bird stated. The construction work was done by F. C. Smith, Inc., of Milwaukee and Duluth. Other contracts were issued to Robert Gunz Heating company, heating; Erlanson the Plumber, plumbing; Badger Electric company, electric wiring; William Sweet, painting; Bell Machine company, motorized machines; and G. W. Briggs, tile flooring. All these were from Oshkosh.

Settle Strike At Neenah Firm

Employees Go Back To Work After Vote On Bargaining Agent

Neenah — The strike at the Neenah Foundry company, which started two weeks ago, was ended today, Edmund J. Aylward, president of the firm, reported.

Aylward stated that a vote of the employees was conducted yesterday afternoon and by a 1-vote margin, the employees favored the firm recognizing as the bargaining agent local 121, Molders and Foundry Workers union, A. F. of L.

Aylward pointed out that the foundry will not be a closed shop, for the vote concerned only the dispute over the bargaining agent.

He also stated that the strikers are being put back to work as fast as possible and the plant will be in full production by Monday.

About 90 workers went on strike Thursday night, Oct. 10, because the firm declined to recognize the local as the bargaining agent. At that time, Aylward said that the firm offered to recognize a union chosen on a labor board vote.

CAMERA CATCHES SCENES FROM THESPIAN PLAY—Actors rehearsing scenes in the Neenah High school Thespian club 3-act comedy, "Apron String Revolt," which will be staged Tuesday night, Oct. 29, in the auditorium were "shot" by a Post-Crescent cameraman this week. Ralph Christiansen is shown upper left bidding farewell to his dog Tippy, Ralph having decided to run away from home. Virginia Morrison and June Fader stage a real fight, upper right. Miss Morrison, the winner, throws Miss Fader and says, "There. Down you sit and behave yourself, too." In the foreground, Christiansen, shown on the floor, had tried to escape from Gladys Christoph, right, and Nancy Droheim, left, when they came into the room. Hiding behind the chairs, the boy sneezed, and Miss Christoph, thinking it was Tippy, the dog, put her hand down to pet it. "Good old Tippy. He likes me. See, he even licked my hand." Miss Ruth Chaimson is the director. (Post-Crescent Photos.)

Thespians Put Final Touches To 3-Act Comedy

Dress Rehearsals Are Scheduled for Neenah Production

Neenah—Dress rehearsals for the Neenah High school Thespian club's 3-act comedy, "Apron String Revolt," by Dorothy Rood Stewart, will be held Monday night in the auditorium.

The play, the first 3-act production staged this year by the club, will be produced Tuesday night, Oct. 29, under the direction of Miss Ruth Chaimson.

The director reported that rehearsals will be completed this week. The production committees are finishing new scenery and gathering furniture and property for the show.

The actors and the parts they portray are as follows: June Wolfhous as Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, an attractive widow; Nancy Droheim as Annabelle Maden, a good friend of Mrs. Hall; Eunice Niles as Mrs. Aldin, a neighbor; Virginia Morrison as Mrs. Lanigan, an Irish maid.

McGovern Defends New Deal Policies

Milwaukee —(P)—Francis E. McGovern, Democratic candidate for governor, defended the fiscal policies of the national administration before a group of women voters yesterday.

"If the financial conditions of the country were so bad, they (opponents to the administration) would not be investing their money in its securities," he said.

McGovern said that interest charges on the national debt previous to 1932 amounted to 31 per cent of the national income and that today interest charges had been reduced to 13 per cent of the national income.

Farm Income Is Set at 9 Billions

Better Than 1939 But Less Than in 1929, U. S. Reports

Washington —(P)—The agriculture department predicted today that farmers, for the first time since 1929, would receive this year a total cash income of at least $9,000,000,000.

Such an income would compare with $8,518,000,000 reported for 1939 and $11,221,000,000 for 1929. The department said favorable weather conditions this fall had boosted production and that consequently prospective marketings were now larger than seemed probable in August when the 1940 estimate of total cash income was $8,900,000,000.

"Present prospects are that the cotton crop will be more than one million bales larger than was indicated in August, and the output of grain is somewhat larger than appeared probable on Aug. 1. Since prices of most of these products are fairly well stabilized by government loans, this increase in output will be reflected in increased farm income."

The department said the cash farm income, including government payments to farmers for compliance with production adjustment programs, totaled $6,175,000,000 for the first nine months of this year compared with $5,791,000,000 in the same period last year. Government payments were reported at $542,000,000 compared with $558,000,000 a year ago. The income by products this year and last, respectively, included:

Grains $787,000,000 and $857,000,000; cotton and cottonseed $192,000,000 and $250,000,000; fruits $292,000,000 and $275,000,000; vegetables $501,000,000 and $484,000,000; meat animals $1,669,000,000 and $1,581,000,000; dairy products $1,132,000,000 and $1,020,000,000; and poultry and eggs $514,000,000 and $510,000,000.

The department's report on farm income by states for August for last year and this, respectively, included:

Indiana $23,821,000 and $28,725,000; Illinois $40,863,000 and $51,649,000; Michigan $18,711,000 and $20,905,000; Wisconsin $21,219,000 and $24,461,000; Iowa $46,948,000 and $53,255,000; Missouri $24,555,000 and $25,943,000.

Earlier Smith had dined with Willkie aboard his special train.

He told reporters afterward that "was" was the most important news of the campaign and said he shared "a general belief among people that the New Deal is trying to get us into war."

Al Smith Charges New Deal Headed for War

New York —(P)—Al Smith, 1928 Democratic presidential nominee, says President Roosevelt claims the third term "principle" must be abandoned so that he can "finish the work he began" but that "if he does the country will be finished first."

In his first radio address in support of Wendell Willkie, the man whom Mr. Roosevelt dubbed the "happy warrior" 12 years ago told a Brooklyn audience last night that the "indispensable man" is indispensable only "to the recipients of political patronage" and to those of his political faith.

Took Clever Defense to Defeat Bid

BY ELY CULBERTSON

LAST THURSDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 21: You are East, defending against a three no trump contract. (Your side made no bid.) Your partner leads the spade jack. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

Dummy:
A 5
Q 9 4
K Q 10 8 2
K 7 3

[East] You:
Q 7
K 6 3 2
A 4 3
J 5 4 2

Dummy's spade ace is played on first trick. What card do you play and why?

Answer: The spade queen. With the strength in your hand and dummy, it is extremely probable that your partner has no entry outside of the spade suit. But there is a substantial chance that he held the K-J-10-8-x of spades, with declarer originally holding the 9-x-x-x. If so, you must unblock the queen. Then your seven spot thru declarer will permit West to run the whole suit, whereas he would be unable to overtake the queen without setting up declarer's nine (20 points) cement for playing the spade seven.

Today's Question

Question 26: You are West, declarer at a four spade contract, the bidding having gone:

North East South West
3 hearts Pass Pass 4 spades
Pass Pass Pass

Your hand and dummy are as follows:

[Declarer] West:
A K Q J 10 8
A Q
K J 9

North leads the heart ace, all follow. North then leads the heart queen. What card do you play from dummy, and why?

The bidding:

North East South West

3 hearts Pass Pass 2 clubs

4 spades Double (ask bid) Pass Pass

North's bidding was highly aggressive, considering that his partner had failed even to keep the one heart bid open, but it took splendid defense on the part of East to defeat the game contract.

The ace of clubs was opened, followed by a second round, which declarer ruffed. The king of trumps went to West's ace, and another club was led and ruffed. Now, while there was still a trump in dummy to protect declarer from another force in clubs, the king of spades was laid down. Had East won this with the ace, the defenders could have thrown their cards in the wastebasket. West's spade jack would drop on the queen, and dummy's 10 would be the entry to the diamond suit. But East was alert. He held up his ace. Declarer was now helpless to avoid the loss of two spade tricks. He drew the adverse trumps, but even then he followed with the spade queen, felling West's jack. East, by again holding up the ace, preserved his A-9 for two sure tricks.

Beauty and You

KEEPING FIT—Maureen O'Hara believes in keeping fit through ballet limbering exercises. Above she squats on her heels and then extends first one leg then the other as shown. This keeps her limber. Below: Maureen rises to a sitting position without aid of her hands or arms. This slims the midriff and strengthens the spine.

No woman can have a body beautiful solely by keeping to normal weight and a healthy skin. Grace of body—both contour and movement—is acquired by exercising the body in one way or the other. Our bodies were made for action and when we grow lazy and do not exercise them they lose their figure appeal quickly and our movements grow jerky and unlovely to watch.

Various Forms of Exercise

If you are a habitual reader of this column you know that there are many methods of exercising from which to choose. A woman may study ballet or ballroom dancing, she may join a gymnasium or swimming club, she may walk three miles a day in loose clothing and firm supporting shoes, or she may go through a routine of calisthenics at home. Sports also offer a very pleasing and efficacious form of exercise. So no woman has an excuse for being physically lazy.

The grand thing about sufficient exercise is that it makes one feel so fit and energetic. Some women are under the delusion that they must save their strength, so therefore they cannot exercise. Unless a physical malcondition prevents you from taking exercise, you will discover that regular exercise done rhythmically and willingly creates strength. It does not tax strength.

Exercise Prevents Disease

By keeping fit one builds up an immunity to many physical ailments. You undoubtedly have known a very old lady at one time or another, who was spared many of the plagues common to old people. "Fit as a fiddle," was she and getting a lot of fun out of her waning life. Such a woman most likely had led a very active life, but a sensible one. She probably bore children, had a certain amount of work to do daily which she did cheerfully, and used her spare hours walking, gardening or otherwise was physically active. She didn't rely on an automobile to take her two blocks to the market! She didn't mind wheeling her babies a few miles in the open air each day. She liked to do her housework and she planned it so she would not get too tired. If she were modern for her day she most likely enjoyed a competitive game such as tennis, badminton, croquet, golf or she rode and swam. For keeping her body in condition she reaped good health and a sound perspective when she grew old.

Women Too Lazy

Many women today are too lazy for their own good. They find innumerable excuses for not keeping their bodies in the pink of condition. Overweight or underweight is excused because of an imagined ailment. Lethargy is charged to too much work. Stiff joints are the fault of the climate or weather. Drab beauty is theirs because their trials have been too many. All is nonsense. Every woman can and should

Foolish to Go to College Only for the Good Times

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—My daughter, 17 years of age, finished high school last session. She has recently decided to go to college and I suspect that it is not so much that she is anxious for the higher education as for the good times that she thinks she would have. If we send her to college, it will be a great hardship for her father and me to meet her expenses, and it will probably mean that we would lose our house by doing so. Our son finished college last year and we drained our purse to help him through. Daughter doesn't seem to have any ambitions about working after we make the big sacrifice for her. She is madly in love with a boy who is now 19. She is the only girl and we could give her a fairly good time, and it would make me very happy if she would stay at home and let me have a little of her companionship. What shall we do about it?

PUZZLED MOTHER.

Answer:

One of the most pitiful things in the world is the sacrifices that so many parents make to put boys and girls through college who are not college material. All of us know dozens of fathers and mothers who deprive themselves of every comfort in life; who do without the food they require, the vacation they need, the medical attention that would prolong their lives in order to send John and Mary off to college though John and Mary have gotten poor grades all through public school and have never shown the slightest intellectual yearnings.

Why do they do it? Goodness knows. Sometimes it is because the parents make a fetish of a college education and believe, in spite of all the evidence to the contrary, that a college degree is a magic talisman that never fails to make its possessor rich and famous.

Often it is because Mary and John are determined to go to college and bedevil their parents into sending them, whether they can afford it or not. It isn't because they expect, or desire, to take up any particular branch of study at college. It is because the other boys and girls they run with are going, and because they have heard wild and giddy tales of campus life and the fun and frolic to be had there.

So they put the pressure on their poor old parents. They argue and plead and sulk and cry until finally father and mother give in, and they put a mortgage on the house and draw out the last cent that they have saved for their old age from the bank and father takes on an extra job and mother doesn't even have a woman in to help with the laundry.

For Mary and John are going to college, and Mary has to have sport clothes and evening dresses and John has to belong to the fraternities and take out his sweetie. And when the terrible price has been paid for Mary's and John's college course, when the mortgage on the house has been foreclosed, and work and worry and anxiety have broken father and mother and made them 10 years older, all of the money has been spent in vain, and worse than in vain, because neither one has learned anything that will help them to help themselves. And both have come home with exaggerated ideas of their own importance and with tastes that they have not the money to gratify.

I am not deprecating the value of a college education for a boy or girl who has a thirst for knowledge and the scholar's temperament. Nor is there any reason why the rich should not send their children to college in their adolescent period, when they are nuisances at home and something has to be done with them. But poor people who must make terrific sacrifices to send their children to college should make sure that Mary and John are in the near-genius class before they impoverish themselves to do so. Otherwise they do more harm than good. And in this opinion I am backed up by the great majority of college presidents.

So, Puzzled Mother, I think you and your husband will be doing a very foolish thing if you invest the last cent you have in a college education for this daughter who obviously has no serious idea of study and only wants to have a good time.

If you send her to any school, it should be to a business college, where she can fit herself to earn her own living while she is waiting for the boy friend to make enough money to marry her.

Parents make the mistake of their lives when they spend everything they have on their children and are left dependent in their old age. Don't do it.

Don't Quit College to Get Married

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a young man of 20, about to enter my junior year in college, where I am studying law. During vacation I met and fell in love with a girl, and I am torn between continuing my education and her. Although she wishes me to continue my education, she wants to marry right away, which is impossible if I attend college. And, although she says she will wait for me, I realize that such an attractive girl will be won by another in three years' time; but if I leave school and marry her I will face unemployment. It seems as though I can't have both. Which would you advise? UNDECIDED.

Answer:

It depends upon how much your profession means to you. If you feel that the law is your vocation; if everything connected with the study of law interests and intrigues you; if all your thoughts and ambitions have been centered upon becoming a lawyer, then don't give it up for any girl, no matter how much you may think you are in love with her.

If you do, when the romance is faded and you settle down to married life and realize that you have thrown away your career for a pretty face, you will be miserable, and you will come to hate her, because you will blame her for your own weakness.

But if your profession really means nothing to you in particular, and if you are only studying law because your father wanted you to go into it, or because you had to choose something and you thought it might as well be law as the grocery business, why, then, it won't make any difference whether you give it up or not.

But at 20 you are too young to marry. And you couldn't marry anyhow, as you have no way of supporting a wife, unless you are one of the men who think they have as good a right to starve a woman as anybody else.

And don't worry for fear the girl won't wait for you. She will, if she loves you enough and if she doesn't care for you sufficiently to wait for you for three years, she would be a poor bet as a wife.

Furthermore, you have this consolation—that the chances are that in three years you won't want her. You will have changed and, in all probability, fallen in love with some other girl, and be glad enough that some other man has gotten her.

DOROTHY DIX.

Case Records of a Psychologist

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

Are you a "blotter" citizen? Do you try to "sponge" on your noble ancestors. Or are you the true type of American who pays his way and tries to return to society as much as he takes from it? We have too many of the "gimme" variety of citizens who want to partake of the benefits of Christianity and the American Constitution without paying any tribute in return.

CASE S-110: Lois J. aged 19, sings in a Lutheran church choir. "I wish my father would take an active interest in the church," she spoke regretfully.

"But he says he can get as much religion by communing with nature on the golf links on Sunday morning, or fishing on one of our beautiful Wisconsin lakes."

"I have tried to persuade him differently, but he says the usual clergyman cannot equal Nature as a preacher."

"Dr. Crane, I still think he is wrong. What can I tell him?"

this check should be sent to her—a stranger—in the event that it would be proper to send it at all.

Answer: From the tone of your letter, I take it for granted that you are somewhat older than the bride and groom, and it would therefore be quite all right for you to send a check. If you are not much older and if the check is small, it would perhaps be best to send it to him and ask to buy something that you think that he knows his bride would like.

The Clothes of the Groom's Father

Dear Mrs. Post: At a formal afternoon wedding where my father, the groom, best man and ushers will all wear cutaways, could you tell me what the bridegroom's father should wear?

Answer: The father of the groom should also wear a cutaway.

Afternoon Dress

BY ANNE ADAMS

For "do-dress" afternoons and "don't-dress" evenings, what could be more attractive than this frock made from Pattern 4473. It's an Anne Adams design for mature women who like to look slim and young. There's wonderful flattery in that center bodice panel that continues down to form one smooth piece with the wide, pointed waist-girdle. A row of tiny buttons might add further to the slenderizing effect. Now see the soft side bodice sections, gathered at the shoulders and above the waist! The skirt is nicely cut, with a single seam in front and a back panel for extra ease. Make long or short puffed or flared sleeves. And you might add lace-edged revers, included in the pattern.

Pattern 4473 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric.

Send your order to Appleton Post-Crescent, Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York, N. Y.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

THE HOME GARDENER

By EDWIN H. PERKINS

As the outdoor garden season comes near its close is the time to start work on the spring garden.

Spring gardens are not made in the spring; the ground work at least is laid in the fall.

By taking advantage of all moderate periods, the debris may be cleaned from the old garden and much done to improve the tilth or mechanical condition of the garden to be made in the spring. By doing the rough spading now, it will be possible to sow several weeks earlier in the spring. Further, this roughly spaded soil will dry out after only a day or two of balmy weather. Broken up after freezing weather, it will be ready for raking long before unspaded ground will have dried sufficiently to allow of even the roughest work.

When spading, incorporate whatever manure or humus additions will be made to the soil. It too will benefit from frost action, and the bacteria in the manure will have an opportunity to distribute themselves evenly throughout the soil.

tected by our Constitution, without paying tribute to it or protecting its future by casting their ballots on election day.

They want to enjoy the cultural and real estate values of churches and schools, yet kick like steers at taxes for the schools or suggestions that they pay a little money to charitable and religious enterprises.

Their talk about communing with nature on the golf links is sophistry and rationalization. They know it full well but try to get away with it whenever they can.

A successful church and a successful democracy are not built on the principle of soaking up benefits, but in sacrifices and the repayment to society for those privileges which earlier martyrs have fought and died to make our cultural heritage. Nature worshippers meet no collection plates!

Don't be a "blotter" citizen. Don't try to "sponge" on your noble ancestors. Act like men and pay your way with money and effort. The church is the parent of most of our good things, such as the colleges and hospitals, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., C. Y. O., Boy Scout and Girl Scout organizations, the Red Cross and Salvation Army.

It alone keeps alive the Golden Rule which is the only successful guarantee of the continuity of this Republic. Pay tribute where tribute is due!

Must Find Activity Best Suited to Capabilities

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Will you please do something to help May have a good time at this dance? She came home from the last one brokenhearted. I heard her crying in her room and knew what she was suffering because I went through it at her age. Why isn't she attractive? She is pretty, she dresses nicely. She is good and kind. Her brother sums it up in saying, 'She's a wash-out.'"

The teacher thought of May, thought of her heavy-footed walk, her strong but too firm touch on whatever she put her hand to, her unresponsive face as she listened to what was said to her, her flat voice and colorless words. And she remembered the strength of her spirit under disappointment, her self-control under pressure, her kindness to those about her regardless of their neglect of her. What was preventing the beauty of this girl's self from getting through to touch others' lives? Why didn't they like her?

"O, yes, we like her. She's a good sort. But you wouldn't pick her out to be the life of the party exactly," said the leader of one of the social groups.

How Can She Stand Out

"What would you say she needed to make her shine at a party," asked the teacher, trying to cover the interest she felt in the situation.

"I'd say she needs a line more than anything else. You know. She isn't one thing or the other. You know what I mean. If she was the most disagreeable person, biting everybody and anybody, that would be something to make people sit up. Or if she had some one trick nobody could copy, like Elise's patter singing. Or if she could show an interest in the poses of the others in the crowd, that would put her over. I can't express it but you have to be somebody on your own. You have to be different, you have to advertise your difference, or you can't make the grade in our crowd. You heard about the brat who was too young for the crowd but pushed in anyway and fed her partner's clove drops? Threw the stag line into a panic. That one had it."

"Poor May," thought the teacher. "She couldn't qualify in that group to save her life. What group could she make? Must be some place where she belongs. Strong, kind, quiet, capable. And has to be distinctive for some one thing. Even so slight a thing as a pose. I think it can be done."

Political Battle Ground

For the remaining two weeks of the presidential campaign, this space will be provided for the major political parties to present their arguments in behalf of their candidates. The material is provided by the national committees of the two parties.

Republican

BY CARTER FIELD

There is an emergency! We are in the middle of a stream! The horse we are riding is foundering!

We will never get us across! The horse that is foundering is the New Deal.

Does that mean we will drown? Or that we will be swept down the current?

Not if we are wise! Not if we change to a strong horse. One that is able to swim to safety.

The strong horse is Wendell Wilkie.

The horse that is foundering is the New Deal.

Where will this current take us if we don't swim to a strong horse?

Down stream lies war. The third term candidate knows WAR will make you forget all his failures.

War will make the jobs the New Deal could not provide.

War is something else to blame for the high taxes on poor people.

War means a lot more tax exempt bonds so the rich won't have to pay their share.

That swift current is taking us to other troubles. It is taking us to inflation.

Maybe you don't think that should worry you.

Do you have a savings account? Or a life insurance policy? Are you counting on that social security on which you have been making payments?

Then you better worry about inflation.

Remember the German mark? It became worthless.

Under New Deal spending and piling up of deficits the dollar is headed in the same direction. It is inevitable if the New Deal stays in power.

War will hurry its arrival, but it's coming anyhow if the Third term goes ahead.

It's sound policy to change horses—if you are riding a weak one.

England changed horses, right in the face of disaster.

Where would she be today if she had kept Chamberlain?

Would Lincoln be a great figure today if he had not changed horses? Swapped and swapped and swapped until he got Grant?

Your grandchildren will rue the day if you fail to change horses.

Change before it's too late! Reject the Third Term Candidate! Elect Wendell Wilkie!

Several of the Marion members also attended the meeting.

Emory Rogers was at Wausau Thursday where he attended a meeting of the cheese box manufacturers. This evening he is attending a dinner and meeting of the Reserve Officers at Waupaca.

Ralph Herrick received congratulations on his face and head when he fell down the flight of steps at his home Wednesday morning.

The Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Catholic church is planning a scholastic and skating tournament at the city hall on Thursday, Nov. 21.

Mrs. Arnold Mace entertained 16 women at a 1 o'clock luncheon and bridge Tuesday afternoon. Awards for high scores were made to Mrs. E. E. Hart and Mrs. H. G. Meyer.

Mrs. Henry Bowers, Jr., received the consolation gift.

Mrs. Anna Maue was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the O. O. O. club. Auction bridge was played at three tables. The two high scores were held by Mrs. P. A. Michael and Mrs. F. S. Rogers.

Mrs. J. H. Dusen and Mrs. W. S. Dedehn were guests of the club.

Mrs. Loret Fox was initiated into the Clintonville Order of Eastern Star at Clintonville Tuesday.

CRUEL AND BASELESS

No more cruel and baseless slander was ever hurled in any American political campaign that that now being employed by Mr. Wilkie and his backers to try to arouse in the minds of people a fear that, if President Roosevelt is reelected, the young men now being mustered into training to defend their country will eventually find themselves fighting in Europe or Asia, in some foreign war.

The cruelty in these hints and suggestions and rhetorical questions is not to President Roosevelt. It is to the families of these young men—to all mothers and fathers with sons of draft age or approaching draft age, at a time when, above all else, they need the comfort of confidence in their government, regardless of whether it is headed by a Democrat or a Republican.

It is not only a cruel performance, but one highly irresponsible, stupid, and dangerous in these days when the morale of all citizens of a democracy should be sustained rather than torn down by deliberately created fear and suspicion.

There are some things, at a time like this, more important than votes for ANY candidate.

Its utter baselessness was cited Thursday in a thoroughly impartial review of the situation by Mr. Walter Lippmann in the Wilkie-supporting New York Herald-Tribune.

"What count, all that count, in matters of this sort," wrote Mr. Lippmann, "are the facts of the situation, not the words of candidates."

"And it is the facts of the situation which make it as certain as anything can be certain in this world that no American army can be raised, trained or equipped, carried across the Atlantic, landed in Europe, and set the task of invading Europe."

"The intervention of 1917 could not be repeated in this war first, because there."

It must be obvious to any thinking person that an American army is the last thing needed or wanted in Europe. First, because there is no place to land such an army. And secondly because it's equipment that is needed, not soldiers. Destroyers, guns, airplanes—yes, Britain can use all we can send. But not men. As long as Hitler holds the ports of France, an American army could not get into Europe. And, as Mr. Lippmann points out:

"If ever the time comes when Hitler has to evacuate the coast of France, opening up ports where in theory an American army might be landed, Hitler will already be on the run, and the quick and sure way to dispose of him will be to pour arms into France for Frenchmen, Belgians, Dutchmen, and Britons to use."

England is crowded with seasoned trained soldiers. All this talk about shaming American boys to the "shambles of Europe" is baseless and absurd.

"Until Hitler is so badly defeated that he must leave France, no army can be sent to France as it was in 1917," writes Mr. Lippmann. "When Hitler is so badly defeated that he must leave France, the whole continent will rise against him, and no American army would be needed or could get there in time."

Pointing out possibility of an economic, naval, and aerial war in the Pacific, Mr. Lippmann also says:

"There is no more possibility, of course, that American armies could be sent across the Pacific than across the Atlantic."

Mr. Lippmann further observes that, according to the Gallup poll, our Policy in the Pacific has almost the unanimous support of the people of this country, and that it is a policy Mr. Wilkie himself advocated in his San Francisco speech a month ago.

Finally, we have the repeated pledge of the President that there is no intention to send any of these men to fight outside this hemisphere—that they will be called upon only to protect democracy as it exists in the New World.

And we believe that his word is as good as that of Mr. Wilkie or anyone else!

Wolf River Furnishes Water to Fight Fires

Fremont — The Fremont Rural Fire department, which includes the village of Fremont, the towns of Fremont and Wolf River, outgrowth of the original Fremont Village Volunteer Fire department, organized in 1911, has only four uniforms and not a fire hydrant in the entire district, but it does have one of the best systems of motorized fire fighting equipment of any rural department in this section of the state.

More uniforms and additional personal accessories can and will be added on short notice, but it is doubtful if Fremont will ever need the hydrants, which are supposed to be necessary equipment in every really modern system of fire protection. Fremont is built almost on the banks of the Wolf river, and with the department's two trucks, both mounted with fire fighting apparatus, almost every building within the village limits can be reached, either with water from the river itself or from nearby sloughs.

Pump From River

One truck will go to the river or slough or water hole in case of a fire, and pump water to the tank of the big truck which is the rural fire department equipment, and this in turn can throw the water directly to the flames anywhere in the village.

In the case of a fire out in the country, farmers have to haul water in their own conveyances to the tank of the big truck, which has a 750-gallon capacity.

Fremont is proud of its fire protection equipment, and rightfully so. Organized in November, 1911, with 25 charter members, the Fremont Village Volunteer Fire department made use of its original equipment for more than a quarter of a century, but today everything is modernized.

For over 25 years the little old 2-wheeled fire wagon was hauled out and dragged to conflagrations by the firemen themselves, or by a horse or two in case any were handy. Alarms were sounded with a sledge hammer on a locomotive rim, which was a gift from the Soo line. The rim still hangs from uprights near the present village hall, insurance in case the electric siren now operated from the telephone office, should fail.

Modernized

Of late years, however, the village itself felt the need of more modernized equipment, and when the towns of Fremont and Wolf River also realized the necessity of more protection, the three municipalities joined together in organizing the Fremont Rural Fire department. A new motor truck and equipment was purchased at a cost of $3,300. Costs of maintenance and insurance is estimated at about $500 annually. All firemen, including the chief and other officers, serve without pay.

Only this summer, the Fremont village truck, desiring to become a fit companion of the new fire wagon, was also motorized by being mounted on an automobile chassis.

The original 25 members of the Fremont volunteer department has been increased to 37. These are augmented by 22 men from both the towns of Fremont and Wolf River. These two townships are more or less equally divided by the Wolf river, so that a further division in representation is made by selecting 11 firemen from each side of the stream in each township. They assist in fighting fires in their respective localities, although the village supplies four men on every rural call.

Roland Wells, 62, charter member of the department, and one of the oldest firemen on the force, is chief. He's a rural mail carrier. Arthur Hahn, who makes his living clamming and trapping, is assistant chief. The secretary and treasurer is George Sherburne. Engine drivers include Elmer Kargus, Arthur Hahn, William Kieckhafer, Arnie Sader, O. T. Puls, Kenneth Abraham, Gilbert Puls, and Russell Toepke. The hose captain is Edward Sader, assisted by Sybil Looker. Eddie Teal is the hook and ladder captain, with Edward Zuehlke as assistant. Arthur Hahn is the engineer with Arnie Sader as assistant.

Oldest active member on the force is the Chief, Roland Wells, 62, although E. J. Sader, 74, still comes to an occasional meeting, as does Frank Walker, 64, and H. E. Rademann, 62. Eight charter members still are listed on the books, Wells, E. J. Sader, Redemann, Frank Hildebrand, John Yankee, George Sherburne, Pat Averill, and Edwin Sader. Youngest member of the force is Ruben Barth, 19.

First chief of the Fremont department was Paul Kohls, who served from the time the company was instituted in 1911 to May, 1928. Roland Wells served as chief for a year, and was succeeded by Frank Koch, who held the position from April, 1929, to April, 1937. Guy Kinsman was then elected chief and served until April, 1939, when Roland Wells, present chief, took office.

Kaws in Final Heavy Drill for New London Tilt

Victory Saturday Would be 19th in Row for Champions

Kaukauna — The last session of heavy work before the last conference game of the season Saturday afternoon at New London was slated for this afternoon, with Coach Little's squad to taper off with a signal and kicking drill Friday afternoon.

The game is New London's homecoming contest, and this is one reason the Kaws aren't taking the Bulldogs lightly. Most upsets occur when an eleven is keyed as the New London squad will be Saturday. In addition, several New London stars who were unable to play against DePere last week because of injuries will be on the field to oppose the Kaws.

On the other hand the Kaws will be prepared to put up a better exhibition than in their 34 to 12 defeat of Clintonville last Friday. The Trucker game saw a natural let-down after the 27 to 0 defeat of Shawano, but Saturday the team is expected to hit its normal stride again.

A victory will give Little's team its nineteenth game in a row and its third straight Northeastern conference championship, a record no other team could match.

Central Labor Units To Meet at Kaukauna

Kaukauna — Kaukauna Central Labor union will be host to all central bodies of the Fox river valley at a district meeting here Wednesday evening at Legion hall. The local union is securing several prominent speakers for the program. Delegates are expected from Wausau, Marinette and Manitowoc in addition to Fox valley representatives. The meeting is open to all union men. Lunch and refreshments will be served.

Attend Convention

Kaukauna — Dr. and Mrs. Albert B. Leigh are attending the annual convention of American Medical association in New York city. They will return in two weeks.

Teacher Describes South at Meeting Of Woman's Club

Kaukauna — Miss Elaine Bourgeois, high school home economics teacher, gave a travel talk on the south yesterday afternoon as Kaukauna Woman's club met at the library clubrooms. Mrs. John N. Cleland was chairman of the education program, with Mrs. Olin G. Dryer and Mrs. P. N. Cobleigh co-chairmen for the luncheon. The group voted to participate in sponsoring the conservation program scheduled for Monday evening in the civic auditorium. The next meeting will be a movie program Nov. 12 at Rialto theater, with Mrs. Reuben Rosenblatt chairman.

Royal Neighbors of America held a Halloween party last night at Odd Fellows hall, with a musical program presented and games played. Mrs. William Taggart received the special prize.

Mrs. Harold DeBruin entertained two tables of bridge last night at her Second street home, with prizes going to Mrs. Frank DeBruin and Mrs. Harold Leonard. Guests were Mrs. Anita Grossman and Mrs. Paul Lillie, Appleton.

Campbell Lecture Proceeds Will Go To Yule Cheer Fund

Kaukauna — Sam Campbell, known as the "philosopher of the forest" will give a benefit lecture and show motion pictures at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the civic auditorium. Kaukauna fraternal organizations, unions and service clubs are distributing tickets for the program. Proceeds will be contributed to the Christmas good cheer fund and toward purchase of an iron lung for St. Elizabeth's hospital, a project being sponsored by the county Forty and Eight organization.

Campbell has been lecturing for eight years. His home is in the forest where he lives as a naturalist, writer and photographer.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

It Is Said ---

That news of Kaukauna's famous boobyah has penetrated at least as far as Racine, for the Kaukauna Advancement association has received a letter from that city asking for a recipe for the dish so popular at the sesquicentennial celebration here last summer. "It is a dish we never hear of down this way," the letter stated.

Spark From Chimney Starts $75 Roof Fire

Kaukauna — Firemen were called to the home of Joseph Steffens, 423 Draper street, about 4:30 yesterday afternoon when the roof caught fire from a spark from the chimney. Damage was about $75.

Weighing Equipment Is Found Accurate In Quarterly Tests

Kaukauna — During the third quarter of 1940, of 135 tests of weighing and measuring equipment all but one piece was scaled, according to the report of Harold Frank, city sealer. This piece has since been repaired, Frank added.

"In making tryouts for the quarter I found a much poorer report than usual," the sealer stated. "In a total of 320 tests I found that there were 28 shortages. Of these 27 were packages which had been put up for sale in one of the local grocery stores which were of insufficient weight."

The packages contained dried fruit, which Frank said lost weight as time went on.

"If only every person buying from stores demanded reweighing in their presence of every article put up for sale this type of shortage would not occur," the sealer's report stated.

Five automatic pumps were listed as condemned, but are being used only for pumping, not measuring, according to Frank.

Trade School Offers Spanish Instruction

Kaukauna — Fifteen people have signed for the class in Spanish at Kaukauna Vocational school, with sessions to be held Monday evening, according to William T. Sullivan, director. More enrollments are being taken at the school. Mrs. LeRoy Seifert will be the teacher.

A class in either or both French and German will be offered if enough are interested, Sullivan said. A teacher is available for Monday and Thursday evening and for Monday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. Those interested are to enroll at the school office.

Department Puts Out Fires at Two Homes

Firemen answered two alarms this morning. The first run was made at 5:25 to the home of George Mader, 708 N. Oneida street, when a hot pipe in the basement set fire to a paper box. The second run was made at 7:50 to the apartment of Thomas Hopkins, 519 N. Appleton street, when a gasoline stove flooded.

Professor George C. Humphrey of the University of Wisconsin gave an illustrated talk, using slides he had taken a year ago on a 3-month trip in Europe where he visited leading cattle countries. Glen Vergerot of the U. of W. gave a talk on the improvement made in the testing of dairy cattle. On their return the Calumet county breeders stopped at Elton Morgan's farm near Valders to see his herd of guernseys.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it causes swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

$600,000 A Year Goes To Fox River Employees

Fox River Paper Corp., Largest in Appleton, Has 460 Names on Its Payroll

(What would happen to Appleton if suddenly it should lose one of its major industries? Just how much do Appleton industries contribute to the community in the way of wages and salaries, taxes, expenditures for materials, transportation and services? This article is one of a series prepared to show just what Appleton's larger industries mean to the economic life of the community. Another article will appear shortly.)

The Fox River Paper Corporation, with an annual payroll of $600,000 and 460 employees is Appleton's largest industry.

On Dec. 1, 1938, this corporation, formed by E. A. Oberweiser, M. E. Roberts, and R. F. Bellack, purchased the mills from the Fox River Paper company, owned by W. C. Wing of Neenah.

The corporation's annual purchases in Appleton alone are over $100,000, and it pays in excess of $40,000 local taxes each year. The annual freight bill is estimated at $120,000, the average current inventory at over $500,000, and the annual sales volume at two and half to three million dollars.

The corporation, which represents an investment of over $3,000,000, is one of the three largest businesses of its type in the world. It manufactures rag content business and technical papers under the family name of Masterline Papers. Among these are bonds, ledgers, onion-skins, tracing, drawing, blueprint, and duplicating papers. The company's papers are sold all over the world, in Africa, South America, and Australia, as well as in Appleton.

There are four mills, three on the north side of the river and one on Grand Chute island. This last, the Tetrahed mill, contains two of the five paper machines. The mills on the north side of the river were originally the sites of lumber and flour mills.

The Fox River Paper Company was organized in 1883, and it operated and improved the properties on the north side of the river for many years. During the first world war, Mr. Wing bought a controlling interest in the company, and in 1920, it purchased the Tetrahed mill from the Kimberly-Clark Co. Over $600,000 was spent in reconditioning and improving this mill.

In 1926, the present machine shop was built. An unusually large and complete one, it enables the corporation to do its own maintenance work. The new power house was built on Water street in 1928, and in 1937, a unification program was completed which integrates all the power from water and steam and permits it to be directed to any point needed. In 1937 the company also acquired the Patten Paper company's property on Grand Chute Island. The machines in the mill were later dismantled and sold, and the buildings are now used for storage purposes. In 1939, the corporation leased the property on the east side of Lake Street to Station WBBY and a radio station was erected there. The corporation is one of the few companies on the Fox river which owns its own waterpower. The present dam, replacing an older one, was built in 1926.

The new management has instituted an extensive research and mill control program as well as making many improvements since December of 1938. The technical staff has been increased from four to nine. Two chemists under the direction of Rexford Bradt devote their entire time to research. The others, under the direction of Dr. Philip Dixon, a graduate of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, devote

Three Directors are Relected at Meeting Of Athletic Group

Brillion—The annual meeting of the Brillion Athletic association was held at the city hall on Monday evening. Three directors were elected for a three-year term. There are seven hold-over directors. E. F. Bohne and Frederick Bloedorn were reelected and D. E. Schuck was elected as one of the directors. The legislative powers of the association are vested in the board of directors which meets every month. It was decided that the association will again have a municipal basketball league this year. Plans and sponsorship of the team will be decided by the board of directors at their next meeting Nov. 6.

The monthly meeting of the Brillion Woman's club was held at the high school Tuesday evening. Forty attended. During the business meeting, the president Mrs. Henry Horn appointed three committees to raise money during the year. Mrs. O. C. Wordell was appointed chairman of the group which will give a public card party, Miss Adeline Tesch was appointed chairman of the group which will give a bake sale and Mrs. Donald Mullen is chairman of the cash donation group. Miss Carla Chwalek was admitted to membership. When roll call was taken each member responded by giving the name of her silent partner during the year and presented her with a gift. This was followed by guessing contests in which the prizes were received by Mrs. Cora Thomsen in a photograph guessing contest and Mrs. Edgar Mueller in a spice guessing contest. After the contests bridge and buncos were enjoyed. Mrs. August Schaefer was the chairman of the committee in charge. She was assisted by the Mesdames Arthur Radloff, H. A. Levinberg, A. E. Cottrell, Henrietta Mumm and Miss Mabel Luecker.

Seymour FFA Boys in Madison Broadcast

Seymour—Six FFA boys of the Seymour chapter were heard Tuesday in a radio program over Station WHA at Madison. The following members of the FFA quartet sang two selections: Earl Gosse, Gerald Mielke, Robert Sigl, Jr., and Willard Sylvester. They were accompanied at the piano by Shirley Hein. Others taking part in the broadcast were Ralph Kneisler, Richard Adamski and their instructor, Willard Reese.

Guests at the W. E. Werner home Monday were Mrs. Fred Dohr of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Ethan Peppercorn and Mrs. Ann Beck of Oshkosh and Mrs. J. C. Mielke of Appleton.

The Progressive Sisters of the Skillet had their first lesson Tuesday on upholstery at the Blue Star school. Miss Irene Skutley, county home demonstration agent, was present, and 12 members began upholstery footstools. This club has a membership of 33.

Part-time classes in agriculture and home making are to be offered at the high school beginning at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening Oct. 29. Plans for the year's activities will be discussed and a regular date for meetings scheduled. A joint recreational program is being planned in connection with the regular class work. Instructors are Miss Viola Loebe and Willard Reese of the faculty.

Caps and Gowns

Seniors of Appleton High school yesterday voted to wear caps and gowns for graduation exercises. The gowns, which will be blue in color, will be rented for the occasion.

Fruit Jobbers to Meet in Appleton

The Wisconsin-Upper Michigan Fruit Jobbers association will hold its autumn meeting Saturday afternoon and evening in the Conway hotel, with about 100 members and guests expected, it was announced today.

Business sessions will open at 6:30 in the afternoon and there will be a banquet at 6:30 in the evening.

Jack Alberti, Milwaukee, who worked for a number of years in Europe representing fruit and vegetable industries in United States, will be the principal speaker at the banquet. Alberti was in Europe at the time the war broke out. Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Police Chief George T. Prim will be among the guests at the meeting.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never be without it in your home, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drug store. This is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

THE NEBBES
By SOL HESS

WELL, DID NEBB AND YOU COME TO AN UNDERSTANDING? YOU DON'T LOOK LIKE IT.

NOT YET. HE'S AS SLIPPERY AS A GREASED EEL. HE'S FULL OF THE TENDEREST WORDS AND HE CAN GIVE YOU THE SOFTEST, FRIENDLIEST PAT ON THE BACK BUT YOU CAN'T GET INTO HIS POCKETS. THEY'RE SEWED UP.

THIS LITTLE GUY SLIDER WANTS A PIECE OF MY BUSINESS. I'M WILLING TO GIVE HIM A JOB AS LONG AS HE LIVES BUT I DON'T WANT ANY SELF-APPOINTED PARTNERS!

HE'S BEEN PRETTY FAITHFUL. HE CARRIED ON WELL WHILE YOU WERE SICK.

HE'S GOT INITIATIVE AND A LOT OF ABILITY AND A WILL TO WORK THAT SHOULD BE APPRECIATED. I THINK HE'S ENTITLED TO IT.

I DIDN'T ASK YOU FOR ADVICE. I SIMPLY TOLD YOU ABOUT A CONDITION. FROM NOW ON WE'LL TALK ABOUT THE WEATHER OR OTHER THINGS WHICH NEITHER OF US CAN HAVE A POSITIVE OPINION ON.

Uncle Ray's Corner

DUTCH GUIANA

Now and then we may read a bit about the Guianas, but we do not hear so much about them as other parts of South America. Yet they are of importance, and contain people, animals and plants with special interest for us.

The Guianas are the only colonies on the mainland of South America. All the rest of the continent (not counting islands) is composed of republics.

Great Britain owns one of the Guianas, and Holland owns another. The third is classed as part of the French empire, but there is a question as to whether a real France exists today to own it. With France under the heel of Hitler's army, we can hardly think of France as a country which owns anything.

Holland, also, has suffered conquest, but her case is somewhat different. The Dutch queen escaped to England, and her empire has kept its spirit of freedom.

Oddly enough, Dutch Guiana has entered into the history of the largest city in the United States. It was obtained from Great Britain in trade for New Amsterdam. The name of New Amsterdam was changed to New York. The deal took place in 1667.

At that time New Amsterdam was just a little town. Present-day New York City has 47 times as many people as all of Dutch Guiana.

Dutch Guiana has a hot climate, and too much rain. This month of October is one of the few dry months of the year down there. On the average, the rain comes down every other day. Often it amounts to from one to three inches in a single day.

Indians, negroes, Chinese, Japanese and Hindus make up most of the population of Dutch Guiana. There are hardly a thousand white people there.

Most of the land is covered with forests and jungles. The coast lands have been cleared to some extent and crops of rice, sugar cane, coffee and bananas are raised.

Before I close, I must mention a famous little animal which makes its home in Dutch Guiana and nearby regions. It is called the Surinam toad. The female Surinam toad carries her eggs in small pits on her back. The eggs hatch and go through the tadpole stage inside those pits. By and by tiny toads hop off the mother's back!

In his next story, Uncle Ray will tell some interesting facts about British Guiana, which is larger than Dutch Guiana, and which contains strange forms of plant and animal life.

Memory of the Moon

By Jeanne Bowman

and for once John did not spring to light it for her. She was glad, the silly little white cylinder was rembling. Either reason was disconcerting. One more than another, "Idiot," she charged herself.

"As the young Taylor can't marry El Cabrillo, unless Donna should succumb, and I can't imagine Donna falling for a vaquero," Constance began, "he must mean to work."

"Dollars-a-year man?" inquired Constance. "But don't be foolish, John, there's no reason for my seeing Taylor every day, or even every week . . . and what if I should?" she added. "Look, here's a letter from the State Agricultural college, must be Pederson's credentials; Pederson is the Dane Mrs. MacKelvey believes in so firmly."

Constance tried several times to interest the family in the ranch. "Imagine a man graduating from a cow-college," disparaged Donna. "What good are those references? Who cares if he's had ten years of practical husbandry since then? Anyone who could stand to be around a cow could run a dairy."

Bound By Kindness

Constance gave up. She was leaving for the west, two days before Christmas. There would be nothing merry or peaceful among the Cabrillos if she remained.

She had one last chore. She must tell her story. Fortunately the reporter had imagination. Into his account he wove the history of Michael Mahoney, as well as the Cabrillos, and he gave full credit for the present condition of the ranch to the Taylors, who had carried on despite changing conditions.

"That," stated John, striking the paper as he drove with Constance to her west-bound train, was a final check on Cabrillo credit. No man, aside from the one who loves you, will believe you can make good against such odds."

Constance settled into her compartment; Lamson bringing evidences of John Raskthorne's affection with him. Candy, flowers, magazines and a number of books on dairy farming.

She had received her Christmas gift from him, a fleece-lined coat of soft leather; a leather bound wristwatch; a leather bound doekin and, riding in the baggage car, a handsome stock saddle.

Lamson, the only family representative gave her an assured farewell. "Be careful of the horses,"

Miss Conchita. I wish you would wait until I could join you."

"You can join me anytime you are ready," Constance assured him. "Someone has to drive my car out in the spring."

Lamson left and she turned to John. How could she think of him as a sweetheart, when he was father, mother and brother to her? He'd thought of the things Nadine should have remembered. He'd stood by her through her troubles as Don should have stood. Now he was letting her go on, into a new world, without trying to hold her; letting her try out her wings, as a father would. And he'd been there, in the background, waiting if the wings weren't strong enough.

"John, you're binding me to you with your kindness," she whispered into his shoulder, and leaned there a moment.

And then the train was moving out and she was alone. Lights slid past her window, colored lights, tiny trees glittering in shack windows along the railroad, snow hiding the ugliness of the mean places which held them.

Once, after she had turned out her light and lay watching the landscape, a sleigh waited at a crossing, a sleigh filled with people old and young . . . a family, all together, going somewhere to celebrate the holiday.

Constance thought of her mother's farewell, a quick, light, perfumed kiss. "I hope you're not making a mistake, dear."

Constance had watched the glittering parade, seeing herself in severe black tailored clothes. Now she thought, bitterly, "The runt of the litter; the queer crossbreed; the throwback."

Morning came with the snow falling thick, blurring the landscape and casting an unearthly glow in the compartment. The diner was filled with families going home for Christmas, with commercial men hurrying home for one day with their families, even the waiters were filled with the joy of the holidays.

Constance retreated from the happy people. She rang for a table and buried her thoughts in the future.

Here were the letters pertaining to transactions. She'd read them through, every one of them . . . but later, now she would study darning. She read Holsteins, Jerseys, Guernseys, Shorthorns, Herefords, Galloways, Devon and Durham, as she read the pages of the book. Feed mash, tillage, housing, marketing, clammed into her head.

What would Michael Mahoney have thought of his throwback, she wondered once. She closed the book and leaned back assured. She had done exactly what Michael Lions Hear Talk On Disposal Plant

Clintonville—John Kafka, superintendent of the Clintonville sewage disposal plant, was the guest speaker at the Lions dinner Tuesday evening at the clubhouse on Long lake. He explained the operation of the disposal plant. Eric Desen also was a guest of the club. Plans were made for a Halloween party at the next meeting, Oct. 29, which will also be "ladies' night."

Initiation ceremonies were conducted Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the Order of Eastern Star. Two new members were received into the chapter. After the meeting a lunch was served in the dining room, where the long tables were decorated in keeping with Halloween.

At this time Mr. and Mrs. George Berndt, past officers of the Clintonville chapter, were honored in observance of their silver wedding anniversary which occurred Oct. 6. An original poem was read to the couple by Mrs. E. J. Meyer.

The serving committee included: Mesdames S. H. Sanford, C. B. Stanley, W. C. Schumacher, William Nath, Donald Olen, Herbert Bovee and G. H. Billings.

A large group of Eastern Stars accompanied Jobs's Daughters to New London Monday evening, where the young women exemplified their initiatory work.

The S.O.E. club will meet at the Masonic temple Friday afternoon, Oct. 26, with Mrs. G. H. Billings and Mrs. J. R. Shannon as the hostesses.

The circulation department of the Appleton Post-Crescent is represented in Clintonville by James Bohr 46 Main street. Orders for subscriptions may be left with him. Subscribers missed by carrier should call Mr. Bohr telephone 5571, before 7 p m.

Couple Honored on Third Anniversary

Clintonville—Relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Jones honored them Tuesday evening at their home on McKinley avenue in celebration of their third wedding anniversary. Three tables of cards were played, after which a lunch was served. High honors at bridge went to Mrs. Victor La Marche and high score at schafkopf was won by Harland Jones. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were each presented with a gift.

Mrs. J. J. Monty entertained relatives at dinner Monday evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Henry Monty.

Later in the evening a group of friends surprised Mrs. Monty with a birthday party at her home. Two tables of cards were in play with prizes awarded to Mrs. George Gretzinger, Mrs. Margaret Moriar, would have done under these circumstances.

"I can't lose," she cried aloud. "I can't, it isn't in the cards; it's just history repeating itself."

Grin and Bear It

By Lichty

"The reason I can sell diamonds so cheap is because there's no middle-man's profit—it's direct from mine to you."

Program Planned by Hortonville School Tomorrow Evening

Hortonville—Hortonville public school will present a program in the community hall Friday evening. Two one act plays will be given by the high school students and specially numbers by the primary, intermediate and grammar room children. It will also be the first appearance of the 1940 school band.

Prof. A. Lamare, Marquette university spoke before the Hortonville high school assembly Tuesday morning on "National Defense As It Affects Our Vocations."

The sophomores won the touch football tournament. They defeated the freshmen, 39 to 0, the Juniors, 25-0, and the seniors 2 to 0.

Primary pupils will have a Halloween party Thursday afternoon Oct. 31.

The school society of the intermediate room held its meeting Friday, Miss Emma Steerbock and Miss Irene Kahl.

Governor Julius P. Heil spoke in Clintonville at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. His campaign address was given at the corner of N. Main and Twelfth streets. Members of the local Republican committee had dinner with the governor that noon at Hotel Marson.

Essay Contest For Students

Auxiliary of V.F.W. Sponsor of City and National Competition

Appleton High school and junior high school students have an opportunity to win a $10 city prize and national awards totaling $2,000 in an essay contest being sponsored by the auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The auxiliary of the Harvey Pierre post is sponsoring the contest in Appleton. The subject for the essay is "One Nation Indivisible."

Mrs. E. J. Schaaf is chairman of the Appleton contest, in which a first prize of $10 will be offered. She is assisted by Mrs. Pat Ferguson, Mrs. John R. E. Miller, and Mrs. Julius Homblette.

In the national contest, a total of $2,000 in prizes will be distributed.

The winner will receive a check for $1,000. Second place will receive $500, third place $250, and fourth place $100. The balance of the prize money will be divided among 20 students as consolation awards.

One Result of War

The World of STAMPS

Australia's defense stamps have arrived in a set of four.

Today Australia's navy (most of it) is in the Mediterranean. Much of her army is in the Near East. At home Australians are busy building new factories to supply war products for Great Britain.

The Philatelic Journal of Great Britain calls these stamps. "Australian War Effort Commemoratives."

The new set of four has a total value of one Australian shilling. There's a brown six-penny, a carmine two-penny, a bright green one-penny, and a blue three-penny. The design includes three uniformed men with the background showing the head of a Red Cross nurse. Buildings on the right and trees on the left complete the picture.

The inscription is simple: "Australia 1940 postage."

Argentina is making some changes in cancellations and first-day issues that will make acquisition of stamps easier for collectors.

Next stamp expected from the Latin-American country will honor her sixth president, Julio Argentino Roca. The stamp, a five-centavo, probably will appear in November. It will show the president in armor on horseback.

New air mails soon to come from Argentina will be the first new issues for about five years. The Cook Island 1½ pence violet and black has appeared as an addition to a series already out but with a 3 pence surcharge.

The Hayden planetarium arranged an interesting exhibit of stamps dealing with astronomical subjects for October showing. The group included 11 rocket stamps from England, Australia, India and other countries.

In commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of the Swedish sculptor, Johan Tobias Sergel, Sweden has issued two postage stamps—a 15-ore brown and a 50-ore gray.

Latest commemoratives of the anniversary of the first adhesive postage stamp are from Estonia. The four stamps show the same design of a carrier pigeon and plane. Values are 3-cent orange, 10-s purple, 15-s reddish brown and 30-s blue.

The United States post office department has issued a photograph of a new three-cent stamp to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the slavery abolition amendment to the Constitution.

First-day sales will be at the New York World's Fair. The initial printing will include 40,000,000 stamps.

Self-addressed envelopes should be forwarded to the Postmaster, Flushing, New York, by collectors wanting first-day covers.

Farmers at Leeman Harvesting Cabbage

Leeman — Local farmers are harvesting the season's cabbage crop and hauling it to various markets for shipping and storage. An excellent crop is reported though the price per ton is lower than usual, ranging from $3 to $5 per ton.

Howard Runnoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Runnoe, has enlisted in Company A, Marinette, and expects to leave soon for Camp Beauregard, La. Captain Harvey Borman, route 1, Black Creek, has been called to Army service in Aberdeen, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Falk, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Falk and A. J. Falk attended the funeral of their brother Ole Falk, at Merrill near Hatfield, Wednesday.

Robert Johnson of Marquette, Mich., spent the weekend with his family here, accompanied by Lewis Conterio and Harold Christianson of Marquette and J. H. Johnson of Leeman, the party attended a football game at Green Bay Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Brown, Miss Sylvia Hall, Mrs. Martin Olson and Mrs. Thomas Wilkinson Jr., were dinner guests Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Carpenter in Appleton.

Calumet County Park Committee Will Meet

Chilton — The Calumet County Park committee, William Koch, town of Brothertown, Edward Bechler, Chilton, Gilbert Hipke, New Holstein, Hiram Petty, Brillion, John Stumpf, Sherwood, Henry Thill, Stockbridge, and A. L. McMahon, Chilton, has called a meeting to be held at the court house Thursday evening for the purpose of organizing a park association.

The committee went to Wausau last week to visit the various parks in that vicinity and to confer with the park commissioner in Wausau and study the plans used there. Machines are now leveling the Calumet county park.

Man Hurt as Car Goes Off Curve, Rolls Over

Grant Schillox, route 3, Seymour, suffered a cut on his neck when the car in which he was riding failed to make a turn on County Trunk E near the intersection with County Trunk O seven miles northwest of Appleton about 12:30 this morning. The car rolled 54 feet, according to Captain Charles Steidl of the county traffic squad. Two persons with Schillox escaped with bruises.

Named to Committee

Jeanne Shambau, Duluth, Minn., and Arthur Below, Clinton, Ia., have been elected freshman representatives on the executive committee at Lawrence college.

State Health Board Approves Waterworks

Madison — Plans for a waterworks to serve Brownstown, Green county, have been approved by the state board of health's bureau of sanitary engineering, the board announced today. The bureau also has approved plans for an iron removal plant at Independence, new wells for Marshall and Ableman and sewer extensions at Neillsville and Marshfield.

'Sgood Idea

Raleigh, N. C. — In his spare time, Governor Clyde R. Hoey signs his name on blank sheets of paper.

Then, when he is busy and autograph hunters call, the collector gets one of the sheets.

'Blood Bank' Blow to Those Who Donor Way Through U. W.

Post-Crescent Madison bureau
Madison—For more than a decade and a half, poor but healthy students at the University of Wisconsin have found the sale of their blood for transfusions at the university hospital a relatively easy and profitable method of eking out their slender financial resources.

To several score of those young people, therefore, the recent announcement of Wisconsin General hospital authorities that the market for blood has been closed came as mortifying news. Establishment of a "blood bank" at the state institution means the end of a system of collecting $25 from the state treasury for a pint of blood, the end of the "jobs" of the considerable group of young men who were available for call at any time of the day or night to aid the numerous surgery patients at the hospital.

For four college generations in Madison, the university has had more applications of eager blood donors than it could use. Originally students were limited to one donation every two months. In later years, partly due to the increasing number of applicants, the waiting period had been raised to three months.

Gave Blood 30 Times

Some students who took long college courses or remained in the city during their summer vacations gave more than a dozen transfusions during their campus periods. One young man, now a practicing physician and a graduate of the university's medical school, is known to have donated blood—at $25 per 500 cubic centimeters—on more than 30 occasions.

Because of the greater efficiency and lower cost involved, staff doctors at the hospital on Oct. 1 started a new "blood bank."

"We'll have all sorts of blood stored for emergencies," one staff member explained. "The different types may be saved up to three weeks, although we don't plan to keep blood that long."

"If a patient needs a transfusion, he'll be able to get it immediately. Then, later, we'll try to get a relative or a friend to give us an equal amount of about the same type of blood for nothing."

It was pointed out that it would still be necessary to buy quantities of some rare blood types from professional student donors.

"And a patient just might get his own blood, which he had given to the bank before he came to the hospital," a doctor pointed out.

Wisconsin Health

BY C. A. HARPER,
State Health Officer

There are some 150 women in Wisconsin who are key workers for the sort of national defense our country has always gone in for. They perform their duties without attracting much attention, but the results of their efforts are of the future as well as of the present.

These are our public health nurses, employed variously by state, counties and communities. They were originally registered nurses, trained for bedside care, then they qualified through special training for the broader field of health building.

Of our 71 counties, 63 now boast county nursing services, and two of the remaining counties are receiving state demonstration nursing service aimed at improving the level of maternal and infant health.

The county nurse movement was aided greatly by the 1935 legislation, which set up a subsidy of $1,000 in state funds annually to each county hiring a county nurse. At that time only 42 counties had such service.

Of our other public health nurses, 50 are employed by cities, 18 by school boards, and 12 by Visiting Nurse associations.

In homes, schools and in their offices these women work to make life safer and fuller for children. They are not physicians, hence cannot make diagnoses nor offer medical treatment among the ailing, but they have been trained to recognize cases which need medical care, and they are resourceful in arranging such care.

Whenever a pupil is absent from a public school a certain amount of tax revenue goes for naught, and

Will Leave Fremont

Fremont—Elmer Kargus and family will move this week end to Oshkosh where Mr. Kargus has been employed for the last three months. Lawrence Radtke has accepted a position with the Four Wheel Drive at Clintonville.

Mrs. Martha Drews entertained the Two-table Schafskopf club Wednesday evening.

Services at the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church for Sunday will be English at 9:30, and German at 10:30 a. m.; Sunday school at 9 o'clock.

The pupil falls behind in his studies. The public health nurse's program aims to keep the children fit for school throughout the year.

In the prevention of diphtheria, smallpox, tuberculosis and other threatening ailments the public health nurse is a main cog in carrying out group procedures which medical science has developed.

ALWAYS DRIVE SAFELY

Uncracked Porcelain

Never set hot pans on porcelain surfaces. The heat may crack the surface. Wire cake racks or heavy pads make satisfactory protectors; keep them handy.
